

U.S. General Missing in Vietnam

MAJ. GEN. CASEY

SAIGON (UPI)—The commanding general of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and six subordinates have been missing for two days in a helicopter crash, military spokesmen said today.

Military sources said late today the wreckage of a missing helicopter with Maj. Gen. George W. Casey, commander of the 1st Air Cavalry division, and six other Americans aboard had been located by searchers.

There was no immediate confirmation that anyone had survived the crash, they added.

The wreckage of the UH1 helicopter which Casey himself was piloting, was spotted from the air by crewmen of one of the more than 60 aircraft that had taken part in a massive search.

The U.S. Command simultaneously announced 61 American servicemen died in Indochina last week, the lowest weekly GI death toll in more than three and a half years.

Spokesmen said Maj. Gen. Casey's helicopter, presumed to have crashed, was last heard from at 10:10 a.m. Tuesday (10:10 p.m. EDT Monday) as Casey flew to visit wounded men in his division in South Vietnam.

Military spokesmen did not pinpoint the locale of the search for security reasons. Casey, 48, of North Scituate, Mass., maintained his headquarters at Phuoc Vinh, 36 miles north of Saigon.

There are large U.S. Army medical facilities in Saigon and at Long Binh, 17 miles northeast of Saigon, where his wounded men might have been hospitalized.

The U.S. Command was believed to have withheld information on Casey's disappearance for security reasons.

Also aboard Casey's helicopter and listed as missing were Capt. John A. Hottel III, of St. Bethlehem, Tenn.; Casey's aide; 1st Lt. William F. Michel, of Monroe, Mich., the pilot; Sgt. Maj. Kenneth W. Cooper, of Colorado Springs, Colo., the sergeant major of the division; Spec.4 William L. Christenson, of St. Paul, Minn., door gunner; Spec.4 Ronald F. Fuller, of Providence, R.I., crew chief; and Spec.4 Vernon K. Smolik, of Garfield Heights, Ohio, Casey's stenographer.

South Vietnamese losses rose last week to 371 and 1,027 wounded from 307 killed and 1,607 wounded in the previous week. Communist losses were reported at 1,395 dead last week, compared with a toll of 1,549 in the previous week.

Battle communiques reported the most lopsided American victory in South Vietnam in almost a year. U.S. helicopters and infantry caught a North Vietnamese unit in the open south of the abandoned U.S. base at Khe Sanh and killed 139 of the guerrillas. Four GIs were killed and seven wounded.

The North Vietnamese unit—estimated at between 150 and 250 men—was spotted about noon Wednesday by crewmen of helicopter gunships belonging to the 101st Airborne Division. The area was three miles east of the Laotian border and four miles south of Khe Sanh.

The gunships blasted the North Vietnamese with rockets and machine-gun fire, pinning them down until other 'copters were able to bring in infantrymen, who battled until nightfall.

In addition to the North Vietnamese dead, the Americans captured four Communist soldiers and captured 27 weapons, spokesmen said.

The U.S. Command in Saigon sent B52 bombers on strikes in the same area, where the paratroopers are trying to forestall a guerrilla offensive.

The Stratofortresses dropped at least 180 tons of bombs on suspected Communist concentrations in the A Shau Valley, about 30 miles south of Khe Sanh. The North Vietnamese have long used the valley as a storage area and supply route from Laos.

Spokesmen reported two terror attacks overnight. Four Vietnamese civilians were killed and five wounded by satchel charges tossed into a refugee camp at Phu My, 275 miles northeast of Saigon.

One civilian was killed and two were wounded by 40 rounds of 82mm mortar fire lobbed into the district town of Cau Ke, 65 miles southwest of Saigon.

Cambodian spokesmen said in Phnom Penh Communist troops had mortared the Mekong River ferry town of Tonle Bet, 55 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, without causing casualties, and had "harassed" the province capital of Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of the capital. Meanwhile, in Paris, the Viet Cong said today President Nixon has supplied advisors and money to help South Vietnam maintain "inhuman jail systems" while talking about peace in Indochina.

Dinh Ba Thi, the Viet Cong's acting head negotiator, made the accusation at the 74th session of the Vietnam peace talks.

"International public opinion, including that of the United States, is extremely indignant over the inhuman jail system of the American and puppet regime in South Vietnam, especially the tiger cages of Poulo Condor (on Con Son Island) which we have often condemned," Thi said. Several U.S. congressmen said they saw what they described as inhuman conditions in the prison when they visited it recently.

"While Nixon keeps extolling the idea of 'a just peace' for the South Vietnamese population, he has supplied dozens of advisors and hundreds of thousands of dollars for these prisons," Thi said. "The only means to put an end to the suffering of the South Vietnamese population is to withdraw totally all American troops from South Vietnam and drop the Thieu-Ky administration, which is an American tool for repression and terror."

Cooper - Church Bill Faces House Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House moved today toward its first encounter with curbs on presidential action in Cambodia—an issue that tied up the Senate for almost two months.

Even before debate on the Cooper-Church amendment was under way, House doves lodged a complaint against the short notice given members on today's planned action.

The Cooper-Church amendment is attached to the foreign military sales bill which was passed by the Senate last month. Under plans outlined Wednesday, the first test of House sentiment hinged on a move by Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., of the Foreign Affairs Committee to send the bill to a conference committee.

After a motion to instruct House conferees to accept the language of the Cooper-Church proposal, the strategy called for Morgan to move to table, or to kill, that motion.

It was after 6:30 p. m. Wednesday when Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma announced the effort to send the bill to a conference with the Senate.

Albert's announcement followed a meeting of House strategists in the office of Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass. Bryce Harlow, counselor to President Nixon, reportedly attended the session.

Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., a leading dove, complained that more notice should be given on an issue of such importance.

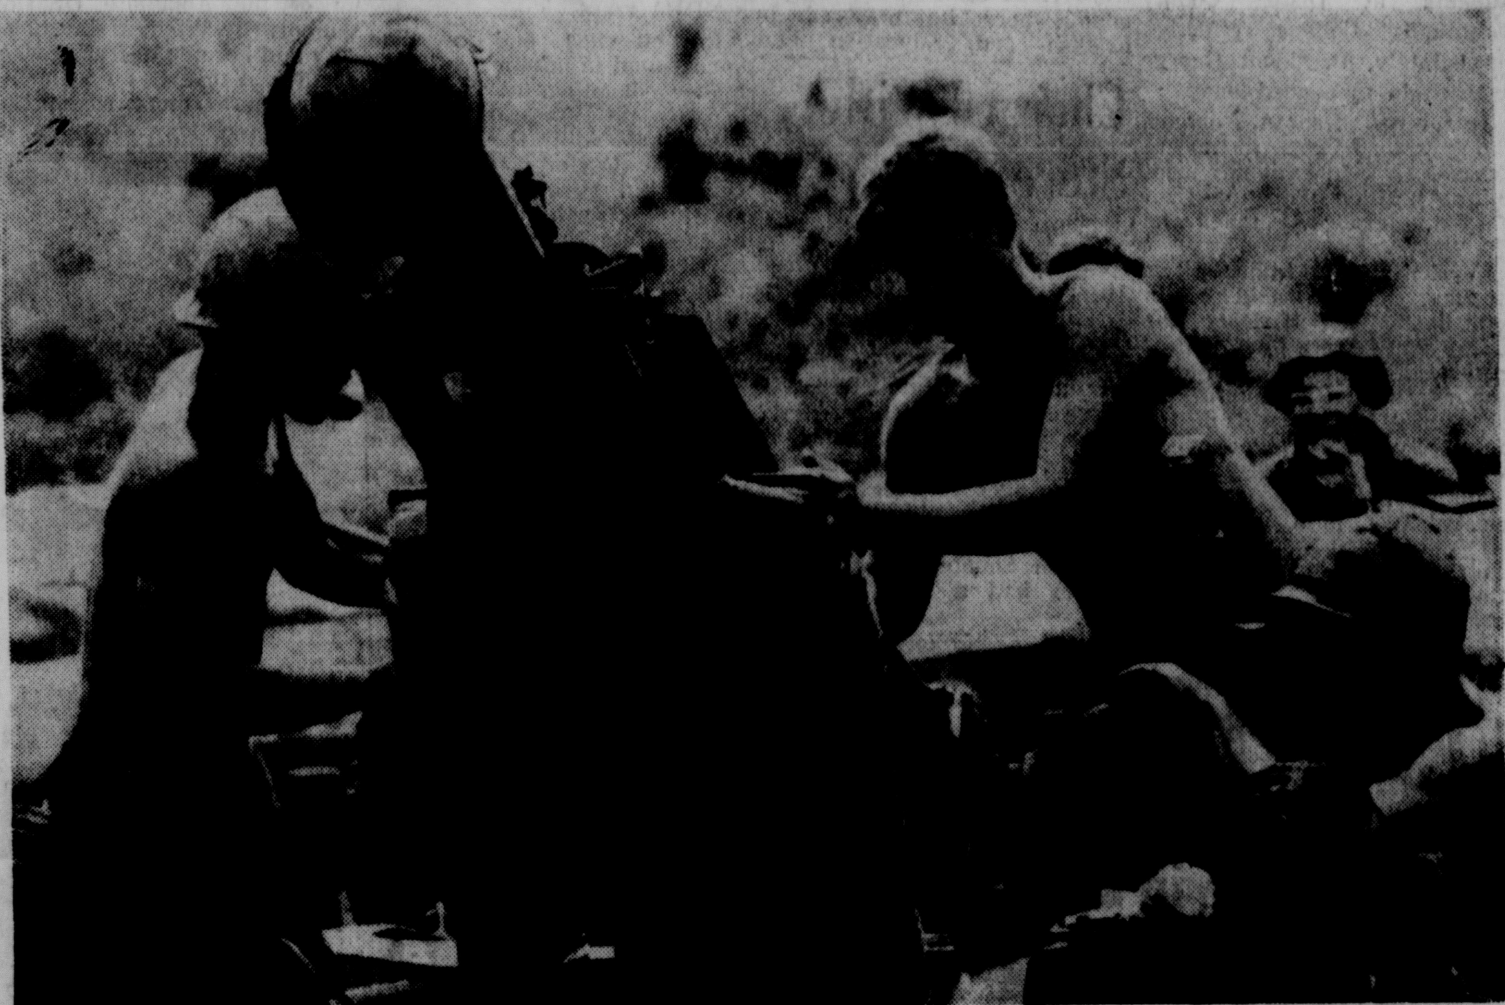

President Nixon has said he would like the Senate-House conference committee to modify the Cooper-Church amendment. He emphasized the recognition of his constitutional duty to protect U.S. troops and authority to pay Asian nations, such as Thailand, to send troops and advisors to Cambodia.

Morgan and other likely House conferees on the bill want to go uninstructed to the conference with their Senate counterparts on the Foreign Relations Commission. The House members involved are opposed to Cooper-Church which is solidly supported by the senators.

House members involved in the conference also say the military sales bill should be continued, while the senators don't like the program through which U.S. weapons and other military equipment are sold to foreign nations.

The House people expect a long bargaining session with the Senate and one member said, "It may get acrimonious before it's over."

The Cooper-Church amendment, with an effective date of July 1, would bar the president from spending any funds without congressional consent for retaining U.S. forces in Cambodia, sending military advisors to instruct Cambodian forces, providing air combat support to Cambodian forces, or financing others "to engage in any combat activity in support of Cambodian forces."

Special Council Session Set

Hess Controversy — Fate in Doubt

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Alderman Donald Quick (D-Sixth Ward) announced today that the Common Council will go into special session next Tuesday night to vote on the controversial "Hess apartments" after Wednesday night's heated public hearing which brought out some 60 residents in opposition.

Quick explained that the meeting must be called on the 14th because the petition by Louis J. Hess of New Jersey for the rezoning of a 6-acre parcel of land off Fairview Avenue was resubmitted on April 15. The Council has 90 days to act on it and time runs out at midnight on the 14th.

The special meeting has been called upon the signatures of five aldermen. Quick, Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward), Mrs. Florence S. Ludlow (D-Fourth Ward), Edward Norton (D-11th Ward) and Michael Perry (D-Seventh Ward).

Quick, chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee of the Council, held the public hearing last night at city hall. Fourteen persons spoke against the Hess Proposal and two spoke in favor of it. Louis DiDonna, attorney for Hess and Howard Fox, partner in the realty firm of O'Connor and Fox which owns the land.

The fate of the proposal at Tuesday night's Council meeting is now in doubt due to the fact that a petition (with 69 names) has been presented against the proposal. According to Quick, 10 votes will now be needed to insure passage. That means that only four votes from the 13 aldermen could defeat it.

Strong opposition against the apartment complex in the Fairview Avenue, Merritt Avenue section of the city has been expressed ever since Hess first submitted his petition for a zoning change from R-1 to R-6 in August of 1967.

In fact, shortly after, Hess withdrew his petition, citing the opposition of the area residents as the main reason.

On Dec. 27, 1967, he resubmitted the petition and it was subsequently approved by the Council in special session March 23, 1968. A long court battle ensued which was ultimately won by the residents when the courts ruled that the passage in the Council was illegal since the city had not consulted the county planning board before voting on the measure.

Quick, at last night's meeting, told those in attendance that the petition had been sent to the county planning board which returned it with the comment that it was a city matter and should be acted on by the city. The city planning board has approved it.

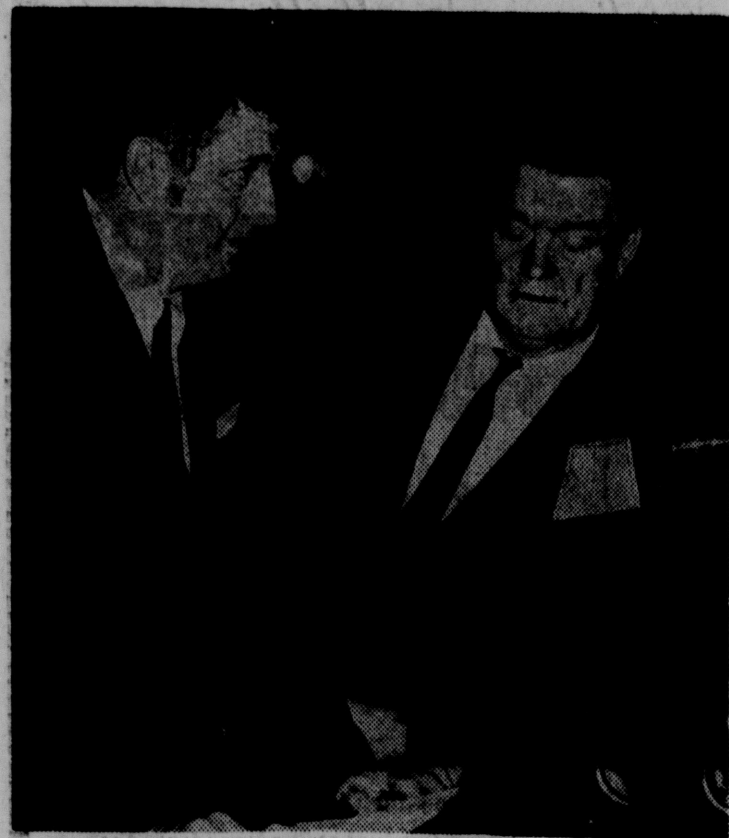

DiDonna and Fox cited the declining population in Kingston and the need for more housing and the benefits to be derived by the proposed $2 million, 152-unit complex. DiDonna said that there would be 104 one-bedroom apartments and 48 two-bedroom apartments in 12 colonial-style, two-story buildings situated on a 6.45-acre site with landscaping and parking. The Freeman has obtained a copy of a "Very Important Notice" circulated in the area of the proposed apartments which indicated just how strongly some people in the area feel about the apartments.

It reads, in part: "If you are opposed (to the apartments) we strongly urge you to attend (last night's public hearing). If you are opposed you must act now and demonstrate your opposition and contribute your support. If you don't act you will share the consequences with the rest of your neighbors by allowing the rezoning to take place and allowing still another New Jersey Apartment complex (in apparent reference to Hillcrest Gardens on Fairmont Avenue owned by a New Jersey corporation) to be built . . . in an area that cannot adequately accommodate it." The notice refers to the "long, hard fought and very costly court fight won on April 2."

"Just two weeks later," it states, "Hess re-petitioned the city again to rezone our neighborhood. This is a direct slap in our faces. This is an indescribable outrage. How can the city fathers allow this to happen to us again?" The notice is signed, "members of the City Zoning Protection Association."

There was also a brief discussion of an amendment to the swimming pool ordinance requiring a six-foot fence around any pool with two or more feet of water. It was generally described as being "impractical," a "nuisance" and "as another burden on the taxpayers." Quick noted that it was meant to protect small children. Both matters will be taken up Tuesday night.

Employee Dies in Fire, Man Charged With Murder

By WALTER S. CLARK

FERNDALE

A 40-year-old employee at Grossingers Hotel was burned to death in an incendiary fire that partially destroyed the Round House staff headquarters on the resort property, and another man is held on a charge of murder.

Ferndale State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation officers investigated the bizarre blaze that was discovered shortly before 1:30 a.m. today. Two other employees were burned in the early morning fire.

The dead man was identified as Maxini W. Saldana, of 534 West 48th Street, New York City.

Taken into custody on a charge of murder in connection with the death was Allen Everett Loper, 40, of 601 C Street, Washington, D.C. He was described as an employee.

The alleged murder followed a minor altercation between Saldana and Loper on Wednesday, according to Ferndale State Police.

Firemen from nearby communities were dispatched to the hotel property after the blaze was discovered and reported to authorities.

Several other occupants of the staff headquarters fled to safety without incident.

According to authorities, the argument between Loper and Saldana developed over money matters. During the dispute, troopers said, Saldana allegedly assaulted Loper yesterday afternoon.

Troopers reported that Loper allegedly still angry with his assailant, went to a nearby service station and purchased two quarts of gasoline.

Shortly before 1:30 a.m. the accused slayer allegedly went to the staff headquarters where Saldana was sleeping in a lower room of the 8-room two-story frame building.

Investigators said Loper had the two quarts of gasoline with him. He allegedly threw the gasoline through an open window of Saldana's room and ignited it.

Flames immediately belched forth from the window and the blaze spread rapidly through the structure as occupants fled scantily clad to safety.

Fire companies responded to an alarm and battled the flames for more than an hour before the fire was considered under control. It was reported that the fire damage was confined to the one building.

Firefighters combed through the charred embers for sometime before they located the body of the victim. His identity was withheld for sometime until relatives were notified.

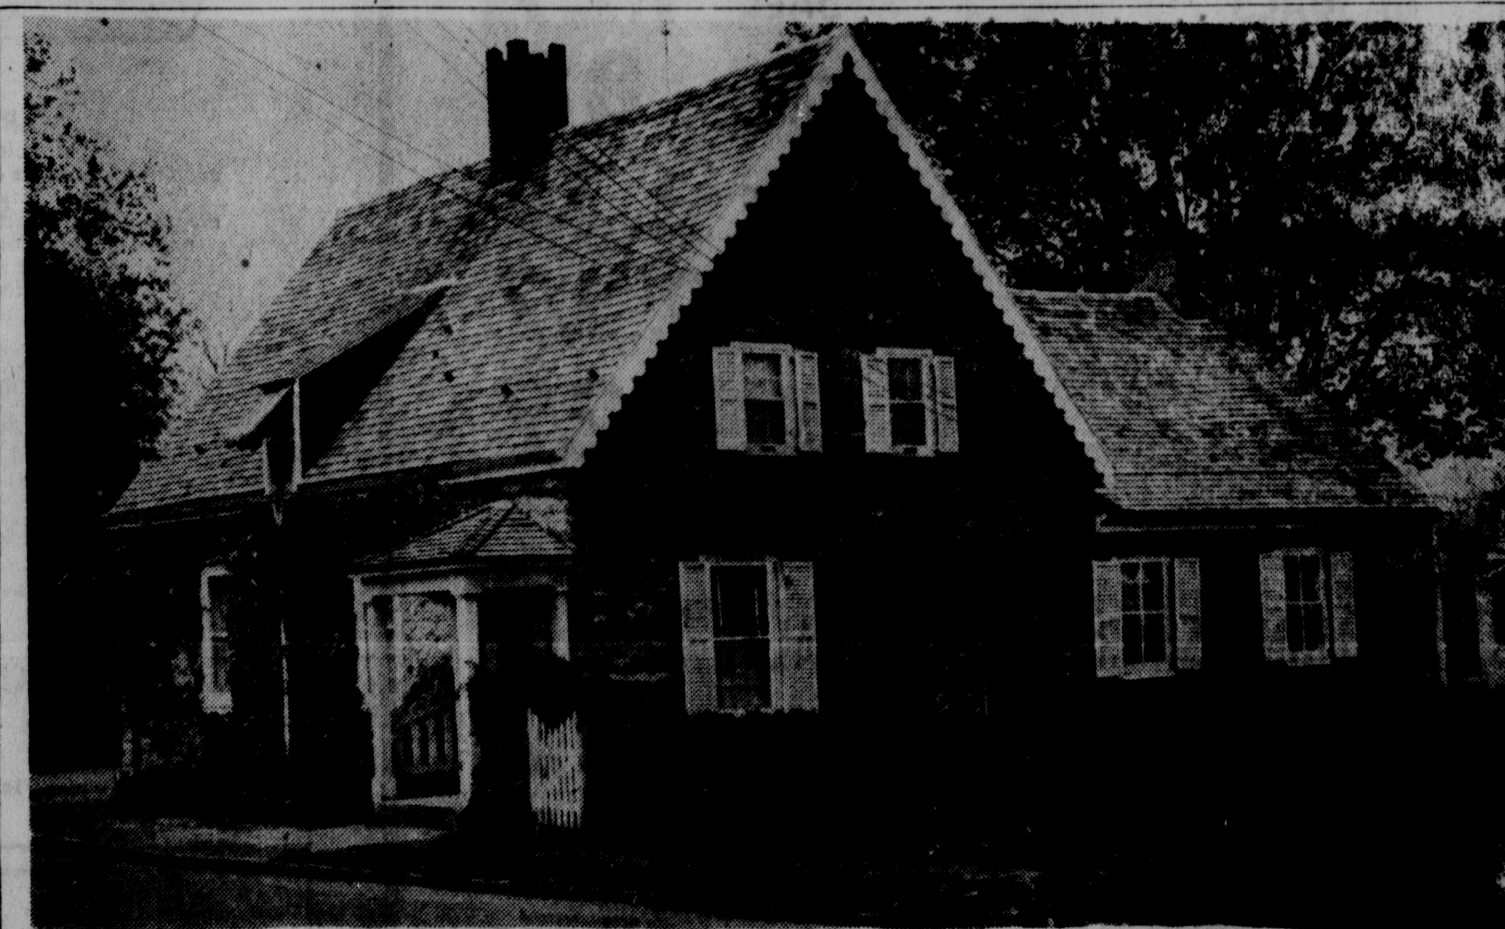

Injured in the blaze were two employees identified as Andrew Zorn, age not known, and Robert Keane, 41, of Medford, Mass. They suffered first degree burns.

State Police are endeavoring to locate a sister they identified as Grace Mace who resides on West 17th Street, New York City.

Dr. Sidney Schiff of Liberty, Sullivan County coroner, withheld a verdict pending further investigation.

Loper underwent lengthy questioning by State Police Lieutenant Griffin, Investigators Donald Scherpf and C.D. Brown, Sergeant J.C. Whitted and other troopers. He was subsequently charged with the murder of Saldana.

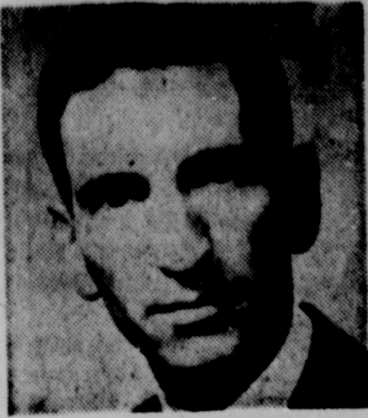

The accused hotel employee was held without bail pending arraignment before Town Justice T. J. Fish of Liberty on the homicide charge.

Saugerties School Board Okays a Re-Vote

SAUGERTIES
Following the receipt of an additional 653 signatures from Wesley Maxwell, asking that the Board give the taxpayers an opportunity to vote on the same budget which was defeated last May or on a revised version of the budget, the Saugerties Board of Education has voted to submit a revised version of the original budget.

The Board adjourned its meeting this week to Monday, July 13, when it is expected that a revised budget will be approved.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold estimated that the vote would probably take place during the first week in August. He explained that it is necessary to publish a notice of the public meeting and the amount of the budget to be voted upon in two of the official newspapers of the District and that a fourteen day period must take place between the time of publication and the date of voting. In presenting the additional petitions, Maxwell stated that the total signatures gathered now numbered 2215. Meanwhile, Anthony Rizzo was elected president of the school board during the annual organizational meeting. Rizzo has served as a member of the Board continuously since 1963 and in addition has been active in community affairs. Rizzo succeeds Robert Herb who did not seek reelection as Board president. Herb had served on the Board for 12 years, five years as president.

Three new Board members — Thomas J. Macarille, Philip Meade, and John M. O'Rourke — took the oath of office.

Glasco Turnpike Area Crash Claims Second Life

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON
Death has claimed the life of a second victim of a one-car spectacular traffic accident that occurred early Tuesday on Route 212 near the Glasco Turnpike at Shultis Corners in the Town of Saugerties. The driver of the vehicle was killed and five others were injured but survived.

Allen Johnson, 13, of 116 West 139th Street, New York City, died at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday at Benedictine Hospital. At the time of the mishap State Police reported the boy suffered a blood clot of the head, massive fractures of the skull and a broken jaw.

Harry Oliver, 21, of 124 Hamilton Street, East Orange, N.J., driver of the car, was pronounced dead at the scene of the crash shortly after 2:30 a.m. July 7. Meanwhile, 13-year-old Phyllis Lindsay of Crown Heights, Brooklyn, who reportedly suffered massive internal injuries, remained in serious condition at Kingston Hospital where she has been in the intensive care unit.

The boy's death boosted the Ulster County highway death toll for 1970 to 18.

Barbara DeJesus, 23, of Peter Pan Farm, Saugerties, were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance. Kingston State Police cited the driver for driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent.

Shultis Corner Festival—Show Cause Dropped

SAUGERTIES
Woodstock Sound Ventures Inc. has withdrawn its show cause order which was to be presented July 2 has become "academic" with the cancellation of the rock festivals in the Town of Saugerties for the next two weekends. The show cause order was originally brought by Woodstock Sound attorney William C. Mullaney to stay a restraining order on the concerts at the Shultis Corners tendence at outdoor festivals and demanding 30-days notice for such events, could not apply until it had been in effect 30 days.

Mullaney said only the first three weekends were "outside" the local law and an application already was pending for permission to hold festivals the weekend starting July 24 and each weekend in August.

He said the July 4 weekend festival went "smoothly," despite heavy rain, but "collateral problems" that developed made the promoters decide to "freeze" the next two festivals.

The town ordinance, which was adopted June 22, limits at

Bartlett Student Dean at UCCC

David Lee Bartlett, currently working toward his doctorate degree at Cornell University in the area of student personnel, has been appointed dean of students at Ulster County Community College, effective immediately. President George B. Erbstein announced today his Ph.D. in Student Personnel by next June. He is writing his thesis on the Student Personnel Regulations of the two-year colleges in New York State.

He obtained his B.S. Degree from Kent State University in Ohio where he majored in English and Education and earned his M.A. Degree from Kent State. His M.A. thesis concerned a linguistic analysis of culturally deprived children's oral language. In addition, he has taken courses at Springfield College in Massachusetts under a NDEA grant.

Bartlett has had a wide background in administration in higher education. For the past two years he has been associated with the Reading Study Center at Cornell University. Previously he was assistant director of placement at the State University College at Cortland, assistant dean of men at both the University of Miami in Florida and Bucknell University in Pennsylvania, and graduate assistant in student personnel at Kent State.

He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi and Phi Delta Kappa, two honor societies, and is a member of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, the American Personnel and Guidance Association and The American College Personnel Association.

Orwell Ventures, promoters of the fair, expect 10,000 young people will attend the rock fest in Mountain Dale, which is located midway between Ellenville and Monticello.
At least 3,000 young persons were already in the area.

The cars were driven by Mark Davenhall, 17, of Clinton Corners, and Judith Pedatella, 30, of Staatsburg. Sergeant William Urey said both vehicles were southbound and the woman was attempting a left turn when the cars collided. The woman was taken to Northern Dutchess Hospital after complaining of neck pains.
Davenhall was issued two summonses returnable before Rhinebeck Town Justice George Harrington. The citations charged the youth with driving a car after dark, on a junior license and following too close.

CONSERVATION CONFAB — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R) recently conferred with the new commissioner of the new State Department of Environmental Conservation, Henry L. The bill creating the department was sponsored and supported by Bell.

Benedictine Administrator Critical of Merger Plan

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON Recommendations for a merger of two local hospitals coming out of a survey made by the Health and Hospital Planning Council of Southern New York Inc. drew sharp criticism yesterday from one of the administrators.

Sister Mary Charles, administrator of Benedictine Hospital, at a press conference, scored Richard Glazer, chairman of the Ulster County Health Council, for releasing the survey report prematurely. Details of the recommendations appeared in a Freeman article Monday.

The Benedictine Hospital administrator, in her announcement, said, "Neither the council nor Mr. Glazer have any authority, legal or otherwise to speak for or commit any of the three Ulster County Hospitals to any course of action. All three are independent corporate entities and before any such essential and grandiose merger as outlined in the news article could take place it would have to be approved by the governing bodies of all three institutions."

As was noted in the article the report was presented to two local hospitals in late June and will be presented to the Northern Metropolitan Health and Hospital Council Inc. for approval in the fall. It was pointed out in the article that the merger plan was more than a recommendation. Glazer was quoted as saying that if it were accepted it would upgrade health services in the county "by a 100 years."

At the press conference Sister Mary Charles said:

"The last meeting of the Ulster County Health Council was held on June 25, at which time

Mr. Glazer, as chairman, discussed a 41-page survey, informal and incomplete in nature. The report was subject to further review and upon the understanding that a final report would be submitted in October. The report itself was labeled 'Tentative Draft' and presumably was presented for study and comment by the institutions involved. The meeting did not approve the report, and in fact took no action with respect to it. Nor did the meeting authorize Mr. Glazer, or anyone else, to publicize this 'tentative report' or indicate, directly or indirectly, that the institutions concerned had approved its recommendations in whole or in part. The most that any of the three hospitals agreed to do was to study, in depth, the findings and conclusions of this survey group. Of course, there has been inadequate time to do this to date."

"In view of the actual background of the whole matter, I was, therefore, greatly shocked by the fact that Mr. Glazer, wholly on his own unauthorized initiative, elected to furnish, quite gratuitously, the news prematurely with such an unmedia with a grossly inaccurate founded story was a most irresponsible act. I speak, of which has little basis in fact course, only for the Benedictine and, because of its inaccuracies, Hospital. I think Mr. Glazer is quite detrimental to the three of us all, including the institutions involved. Indeed, in zens of Ulster County, an ex-my view, running to the press planation."

County GOP—No Stand on Goodell

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON The position of the Ulster County Republican Committee with regard to the reelection of Charles Goodell for U.S. Senate, is that it "takes no position" and urges every voter to vote "according to his own deep personal conviction; and individual conscience."

Earlier, the local GOP endorsed all state Republican candidates except Goodell.

Meeting this week the committee also named Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, as chairman of the committee's annual dinner to be held Sunday, Oct. 18 at the Granit Hotel in Kerhonkson.

On the state scene, the committee placed its emphasis on the reelection of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the retention of the Republican majority in both the Senate and the Assembly, pointing out that the party in power for the next two years will control the scope and destiny of government in that it alone will reapportion the congressional, assembly and senatorial districts.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, who as state committeeman attended the State Republican annual meeting in Albany Tuesday, said the meeting was fairly routine but with no mention of Goodell in the general session. There are reports however that disagreement over Goodell's candidacy during an executive session was the only item to mar peacefulness of the day.

Similarly, at the Ulster County Committee meeting, the subject of Goodell's candidacy also brought forth a certain amount of disagreement before the "no position" attitude was assumed.

Former State Senator Lloyd Newcombe of Catskill addressed the local GOP in his present capacity as head of the "People For Rockefeller" movement in this part of the state.

The committee agreed to provide a single campaign headquarters for all Republican candidates on the ballot in the November election.

It also agreed to fund the GOP booth at the Ulster County Fair which will be manned by members of the Ulster County Republican Women's Club in August.

In naming Savago to head the annual dinner, the committee honored him with the position for the second consecutive year.

The affair, which is expected to draw up to 1,500 persons, will be held in the newly expanded banquet addition to the resort hotel. Plans also call for the appearance of a prominent statewide political figure as the guest speaker, the name to be announced at a later date.

Rifton Water Boundaries Confirmed

By NANCY SULLIVAN

ESOPUS The boundaries of a proposed water district in Rifton have been confirmed by the Kingston engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios.

The proposed water district in Rifton involves a pollution problem. Following the monthly Town of Esopus Board meeting Wednesday night, Supervisor George Freer told The Freeman that petitions have been drawn up by Town Attorney Louis Klein and will be ready for residents to sign today. The purpose of this is to petition for a permanent water district if the residents want it. Supervisor Freer stated that, taxwise, only the people in this water district would be affected.

"We're moving ahead," stated the town supervisor in reference to the Town of Esopus new landfill area. The tentative opening date of the site is set for Aug. 1. A resolution was passed at the board meeting bonding the necessary equipment. The town will purchase a Caterpillar tractor from H. O. Penn Corporation of Poughkeepsie for $26,370. It will be bonded over a 10-year period. According to Supervisor Freer, this is the most modern and efficient piece of equipment. Bids for the purchase were opened on Wednesday afternoon.

The trial for a derailment clean-up in the hamlet of West Park has been rescheduled for Tuesday, July 14. The trial was supposed to have been held on July 7. The case will be tried in the Town of Ulster before Justice Sherwood Davis. Penn Central had asked for a change of venue involving moving the case out of the Town of Esopus to another town court.

The drainage problem in Port Ewen at Smith and Bowne Streets will be eliminated, according to Supervisor Freer.

Applications must be returned to the Town Clerk by July 22 at 5 p. m. for the position of custodian at the new landfill site. Three applications have been received to date.

There will be a special meeting on Wednesday, July 15 at 7:30 p. m. between the Town Board, the Ross Park Commission, the general contractors for Ross Park Improvement and Brinnier and Larios of an on-site inspection of the newly remodeled park. Supervisor Freer said that work will hopefully be completed within the week.

Other action included the appointment of Peter Stekete to the planning board to replace John Henry who had resigned.

The board confirmed the application of Democrat and Republican Inspectors of Elections in the seven polling districts, effective July 1970 to July 1971.

3rd Uptown Walking Tour

KINGSTON The third guided walking tour for the season of the old stone house area of uptown Kingston is arranged for Thursday, July 16, starting at 2 p.m. from the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The tours are free: local citizens and visitors interested in history and architecture may take part. Features of early Kingston buildings are described by the guides and the interiors of the DAR House, and the Senate House contain furnishings used in past generations that reflect life in a different era.

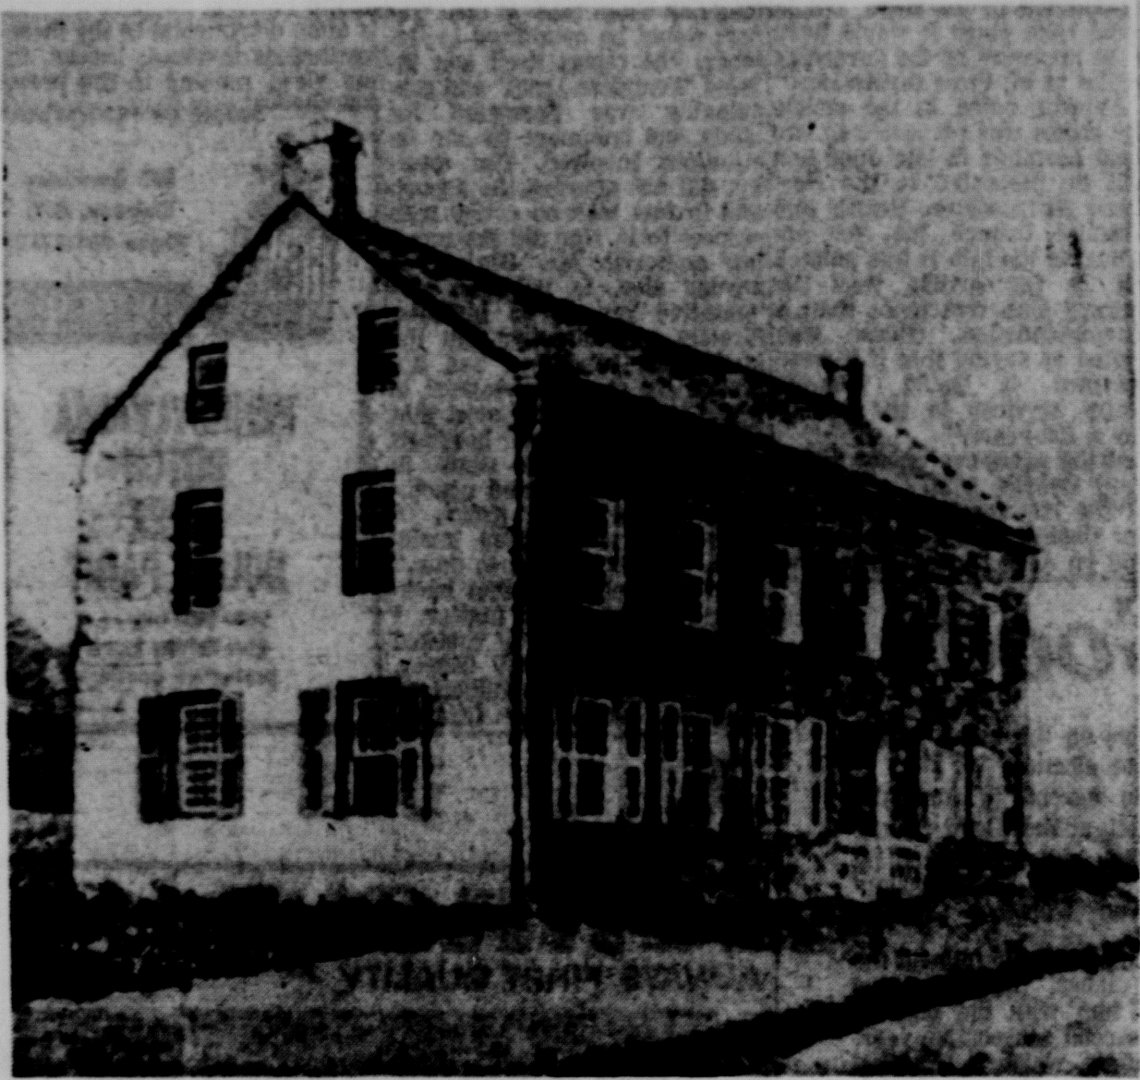

At North Front Street the group is reminded that this street was once along the north front of the 17th century stockade. Peter Stuyvesant who pointed out the advantage of a protective wall at the top of the bluff dropping off into the lowlands could never have imagined the parking garage now being built against the wall of the bluff. This is a late 20th century feature on a street 300 years old.

During the tour week some of North Front Street's earlier history will be recalled in a display in the windows at the back section of the Fanny Farmer Candy Store on the corner of Wall and North Front Street.

The present building in which the store is located dates from 1873, but for over 100 years before that an imposing two-story building, architecturally similar to several of the 18th century buildings still found in the area stood on this site and was termed by New York State as its first "Executive Mansion," although it was privately owned by Christopher Tappan. However, George Clinton, the State's first Governor found it a convenient home when he was in Kingston since Christopher Tappan was his brother-in-law. The Dewaal Tavern, farther down the street no longer stands but must have been a busy place during the days when Kingston was the State Capital. Two early 18th century buildings still part of the street are the Hofman House now owned by the Salvation Army and, on the opposite side, Shapiro's Paint Store.

The pictures and newspaper ads on display have been loaned by Mrs. Sam Bernstein and Eugene C. Dauner.

Unexpected Senate Action

$20,000 Limit on Farm Subsidies

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an unexpected turnabout, the Senate has voted a $20,000 annual limit on the amount a farmer can be paid for not growing crops. The proposal is given a

World Youth Assembly—Fight, Red Try and Yippies

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Before the nine-day meeting's first session in the General Assembly hall, Soviet participants signaled that they would demand the exclusion of Chinese Nationalist, South Korean and South Vietnamese participants because no Chinese Communist, North Korea or North Vietnamese were attending. Hanoi and Pyongyang turned down invitations to send representatives, and Peking ignored them.

Methadone Pioneer Upset

NEW YORK (AP) — A pioneer in the use of methadone to treat heroin addicts charges that proposed federal regulations governing community methadone programs contain key provisions that are unreasonable and unworkable.

Dr. Vincent P. Dole of Rockefeller University said the proposed regulations were put together by the government "with essentially no consultation with knowledgeable people in the field."

Dr. Dole's charges, made in an interview, mark the newest controversy in the stormy history of methadone, a narcotic being used increasingly in many community programs across the nation to help hard-core drug addicts kick the habit.

In a methadone program, the addict is given a dose of methadone each day. Because it is a narcotic, and is itself addictive, the patient remains addicted, but he does not get "high" because methadone is given orally rather than injected.

Although he is giving up heroin, the addict does not suffer withdrawal symptoms because of the methadone. In addition, the methadone blocks the effects of any heroin the addict might take furtively, preventing him from getting a heroin "high."

All this, the argument runs, allows the addict to break the heroin habit, eliminates the need for criminal activity to pay for the expensive habit while leaving him capable of "rehabilitation, working or going to school."

Dr. Dole, with Dr. Marie Nywander, his wife, began the use of methadone at Rockefeller University in 1964. The most recent evaluation, involving 2,862 patients, was that the program is a success and should be continued and expanded.

Some critics, however, noting that the addict remains on one narcotic is merely being substituted for another. Others say those chosen for the program are so carefully screened, and so highly motivated, that it would be hard not to succeed; that some other approach also would succeed with these people.

Two members of the University of Puerto Rico student council demanded that they be seated in place of the official Puerto Rican participant, who was named by a government-sponsored committee.

The Yippie threat came to light Wednesday when a bushy-haired young man and girl identifying themselves as Isaac and Lynn Yippi tried to register as representatives of the Woodstock Nation.

They said they represented the Youth International Party—the Yippies—and the young man said he was the party's finance minister. They said they lived on New York's Lower East Side and that their "slaves names" were Haber and Borland.

The couple had trouble getting through to assembly officials and finally were told to come back today. Isaac said that if he did not get in, "we're going to wreck this conference."

On the eve of the opening, 628 participants had registered from 110 U.N. member countries, several nonmember countries, some colonies and many international organizations.

The best known is Greek composer Mikis Theodorakis, who wrote the music for the films "Z" and "Zorba the Greek" and was recently released from political detention by the Greek military dictatorship. He was admitted as a participant although he is 44—the conference is supposed to be for persons no older than 25.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York held a reception for the delegates Wednesday night on the lawn of Gracie Mansion, his official residence. He told them he hoped their deliberations would "make people understand that peace is the one subject of young people the world over," regardless of country or political system.

About 75 participants from 13 Arab countries boycotted the reception, accusing the mayor of an "adamant pro-Zionist stand."

Smith said he hopes enactment of the measure will serve as a dike against the continuing consolidation of the nation's farm lands into large units, and the resulting decrease in family farming.

In another section of the bill, Sen. George M. McGovern, D-S.D., was successful in increasing the proposed food-stamp appropriation from $1.25 billion to $1.75 billion.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., said the half-billion increase would allow the program to reach about 12 million needy persons, twice as many as are enrolled now.

greater than $20,000, he said. The average payment is $1,400 a year, he said, and a third of all farmers registered get less than $500.

The vote, which surprised aides of Sen. Ralph T. Smith, R-Ill., who introduced the amendment, highlighted action on the pending agricultural appropriations bill for fiscal 1971.

But the Senate also voted $500 million to enable expansion of the food-stamp program for needy families and increased loan and grant funds to help rural communities build water treatment and sewerage facilities.

The subsidy curb is expected to win acceptance in the House which twice has passed similar measures only to see them killed in conference with the Senate.

The Senate vote was criticized by the National Farmers Organization and by Farm Bureau leaders.

"This will be detrimental to the program," said Edgar Hall of Mt. Vernon, Ill., president of NFO. "It's going to destroy a great deal of participation."

Roland Nelson, president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau in Mead, commented, "I do not believe a limitation is going to answer any of the problems that we have on the farm."

Many Farm Bureau chapters advocate phasing out the support program over a five-year period.

Smith estimated the limit would save between $350 million and $400 million yearly. Only about 12,000 of the 2.5 million farmers registered under the program now receive payments greater than $20,000, he said.

The average payment is $1,400 a year, he said, and a third of all farmers registered get less than $500.

Service Academies Flourish

The largest enrollment in the history of the nation's three military service academies give the lie to student opposition to the Vietnam war. The total enrollment of 12,848 at West Point, Annapolis and Colorado Springs probably exceeds the number of hard-core students who have been responsible for the trouble on the campus everywhere.

Of course, the cadets get as good an education as money can buy. It is free. They also get paid while studying. When they graduate, they pay back the taxpayers by serving a specified number of years in their chosen service. But those are incidentals. The important thing is that they will be launched on a military career that for most is for life. Their training is tough. When they get through, they are ready to take command in the world's greatest military power.

This year, the class of 1974 was built with the biggest minority enrollment in history, a total of 299. West Point has 107, including 40 blacks. The Air Force enrolled 140 from minority groups, including 66 blacks plus American Indians, Spanish Americans, and Oriental Americans. The Navy accepted 52 blacks, but total minority figures were not available.

Here is an All American military machine being shaped by men who in another decade will be in command. They will outlast the radicals who upset the campuses and mislead student bodies. More power to the cadets.

Housing Ship-Factories

Since 70 per cent of U.S. cities with more than 250,000 people are within 100 miles of a major body of water, ship-factories can be moored within easy reach of them to distribute their products. With that basic idea, architect-planner Jame Boyce has drawn up a feasibility study of a proposal to convert World War II ships into mobile factories with unlimited product and marketing possibilities.

Ship-factories, the study points out, would cost far less than land, buildings and property taxes in normal factories. For instance, an aircraft carrier which sells for scrap metal at around $250,000, offers half a million square feet of space at around 15 cents a foot. To build such a factory-ship from scratch would cost over $5 million.

The idea is to take vessels that would otherwise go into the scrap heap, scoop out the innards, install a factory for the purpose wanted. At the moment, housing components can be lifted off the factory-ship by crane and dropped into place.

There is no patent on the idea. Enterprising entrepreneurs can put factory-ships all around the country both to give unemployed work and products to consumers.

Possible Rail Takeover

The only alternative to the proposal to guarantee up to $750 million of loans to financially weak rail carriers is nationalization of the railroads, Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe told the House Interstate and Commerce Committee.

Encouraging more mergers or supplying operating subsidies, the other alternatives, did not seem practical. So the Secretary pressed for loan authority as the best way to keep the rails running. He cited previous legislation, since allowed to lapse, by which the Interstate Commerce Commission had provided a total of $242.4 million of loan guarantee.

The national rail system must be preserved. Although railroads' share of intercity freight traffic has declined to 41.2 per cent of the total, they still are the largest single movers of cargo. There is also passenger service which may have to be revived to help relieve traffic congestion, and cut the 55,000 deaths a year traffic toll on the crowded highways. Government supervision and financial help may bring about these objectives without outright nationalization.

Having decided not to challenge Gov. Marvin Mandel for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Maryland, Bargent Shriver has been urged by Democrats in Congress to be the full time fund-raiser for House and Senate candidates. It would test his ability and the ability of any man this year.

Gov. John J. McKeithen has sued in behalf of the state of Louisiana for libel because Life magazine charged that "scores of Louisianans line up to do and receive favors" from a Mafia boss to the detriment of honest government. McKeithen thus challenges the magazine to prove Mafia influence runs the state.

Senator Edward F. Gurney, Florida Republican, who sponsored the bid of Judge G. Harrold Carswell for the party's nomination for the Senate, announced a "committee of a million" will conduct a conservative crusade for Carswell. Carswell is seeking voter confidence after the Senate turned him down for the Supreme Court.

David Lawrence Says Government Has Delayed Solution to Rail Problem

WASHINGTON — Public confidence is the most delicate and perhaps the most fateful element in the economic edifice. That's why it is hard to understand the indifference on Capitol Hill to the plea of the Penn Central Railroad for the federal government to guarantee a 200-million-dollar loan. When it was denied recently, a series of events was triggered off that has produced considerable apprehension in the business and financial community.

Everybody knows that the railroads are having a hard time getting along in competition with the airlines and trucks, and the need to preserve rail service is recognized by the government as essential. Now, however, the refusal of a loan guarantee for the Penn Central has resulted in financial complications. One reads about power companies insisting upon weekly payments of their bills and about pressures that may mean trouble for some other railroads and for the banks that have been holding their loans.

The administration at first was quite willing to render assistance to the Penn Central, but a few of the politicians on Capitol Hill complained that the administration was trying to bail out the railroad and banks for political gain. The matter then was left to the legislators to handle. The result thus far has been to create confusion and a good deal of uncertainty as to what is going to happen to the nation's railroads.

The Senate has passed a bill to relieve the industry of its passenger losses by setting up a government-backed corporation to take over the running of passenger trains. Federal loan guarantees are being proposed by the Department of Transportation, and the Interstate Commerce Commission is considering the approval of various mergers to promote lower costs and more effective service. Experts hope that changes made now will pay off eventually.

The whole problem is not one to be disposed of in a few months. Finances pose a difficulty at present for many of the rail lines, especially since the inflationary spiral has moved costs up higher than freight rates. Railroad wage scales, for instance, have been rising, and the prices of materials and supplies have been increasing. The rates charged for hauling freight, however, have not gone up enough to offset fully the increased costs.

When the Penn Central, which takes care of 35 per cent of the rail passengers in the United States, lost 105 million dollars in 1969 on passenger service and dropped 27 trains last year, the stockholders became concerned. Also, the financial outlook became cloudy as some of the creditors began to raise questions about solvency. If the government had backed the loan, it would have implied that the strong hand of the federal treasury would have prevented any bankruptcy. There are other railroads which are dependent upon the Penn Central, and they, too, are facing difficulties.

The Penn Central incident has helped to upset the stock market. Much attention has been given to the cash liquidity of corporations, and undoubtedly business sentiment has been characterized by a new wave of anxiety. All of this, of course, is more or less psychological, because the fundamental soundness of the American financial structure is one that would normally not even be questioned if such incidents as the Penn Central episode had not occurred. The need now is for a restoration of confidence, and this, as it always has been, the principal task of government in times of crisis.

It does look, however, as if the entire subject should have been reviewed more carefully by members of Congress along with the administration so financial aid of some type could have saved a big railroad from bankruptcy at a critical time in the nation's economic history.

Also, the government has too long delayed a solution of the rail problem itself. The country needs all forms of transportation, including rail. Transit between big cities can still be taken care of, especially in bad weather, by the rail systems, and large quantities of freight can be moved, thus relieving to a large extent the congestion on the highways.

Youth Going Conservative?

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) —

There are occasional signs the next generation of youngsters may be considerably more conservative in their attitudes.

The other day this reporter talked at length with a seventh-grader about a discussion in her history class about people who burned the American flag.

There is no statistical data on this classroom. But a goodly portion of the families represented in the school (seventh and eighth grades) consider themselves liberals. The average education and incomes of the parents are above average. It is not a blue-collar neighborhood.

There were 31 students in the class. In this discussion, it turns out, two pupils thought it was all right to burn the flag. One other said it didn't matter. The other 28 were dead set against flag burning.

The voices that prevailed among these 28 argued that people who burn the flag should not be jailed; they should be shot. Not all the 28 said this. But according to my informant, none of the group objected to this thesis.

This reporter, of course, asked the obvious question. Why did your group choose shooting rather than jailing? And the answer came back calmly and simply: If we jail them they'll just come out and do the same thing over again.

This reporter does not believe that any of these students — if it came down to action — would shoot (or vote to shoot) a man or woman who burned the flag. But the above discussion and scores of others this reporter has had with youngsters of this age indicate that there is a strong feeling in favor of those traditional aims and goals — the flag, patriotism, the family, work, national defense — which have been rejected the past several years by well-publicized activists, some of whom are the older brothers of these same young men and women.

In talking to young people in the past half-year one thing has been striking. There seems to be a great deal more conservatism among the youngsters 12, 13 and 14 and even 15, 16 and 17 today than among young men and women these same ages four, five and six years ago, even within the same families.

Where I live, hair is getting shorter. Many students themselves in the neighborhood scores of others this reporter has had with youngsters of this age indicate that there is a strong feeling in favor of those traditional aims and goals — the flag, patriotism, the family, work, national defense — which have been rejected the past several years by well-publicized activists, some of whom are the older brothers of these same young men and women.

The petition signing, the pamphlet distributing, the protest group meeting activity of late in activist neighborhoods this reporter knows well, is more prevalent among young adults than teenagers. A short time back this was no so.

There seems to be a growing tendency to question the value and worth of demonstrations. It's not that demonstrations are out. It's more that a good many of these youngsters now feel that a demonstration should be used only when there is real relevance, when the people who view the demonstrations have the power to take action to solve the problem and where the demonstrators are in a position to know the facts — firsthand — and this after all other means have failed.

One example of what some of these young people consider a legitimate cause for a demonstration came out in a group discussion among high school students this reporter sat in on: A teacher who uses the classroom to tear down and deride students and destroy their self esteem by his (her) continued sarcasm.

The general feeling was that every attempt should be made to go through regular channels to get this teacher to change his ways or leave, but that if this did not work, a peaceful demonstration might be needed to convince those in authority that considerable numbers of the students were concerned.

A demonstration, even in this instance, was not unanimously accepted as wise.

Jack Anderson Says Free Speech and Press Help Make Democracy Work in U.S.

WASHINGTON — The intense young man with the snarled hair, unkempt clothes, and Harvard education, declared quietly that the United States is so rotten it must be cleansed by fire. He spoke of 1976, the 200th anniversary of the American revolution, as an appropriate time for a violent new revolution.

The last time I had talked to this young man, he was clean-shaven, clean-cut and wore clean clothes. His father is a figure straight out of the American dream — the dream, at least, that once stirred Americans. From a bleak beginning in a shabby Bronx walk-up he has risen to affluence and influence in the business world.

He was driven, in large measure, by a fierce determination to give his son a better life. Still, he was pleased when the boy began to spend his summers doing welfare work in the ghettos.

There, the young man came on intimate terms with stark poverty, social injustice and racial prejudice. He worked with black families who paid rent to wealthy white landlords for foul, dilapidated apartments. In some tenements, the parents and older children would take turns standing watch at night to keep the rats from nibbling on the small children.

The idealistic young man rebelled at the disparity between his father's world and the ugly world of the ghetto. He has now taken his convictions to the street as a participant in at least two skirmishes with the police.

America's Red Guards
His name is unimportant to this story. For I have talked to dozens like him, students with a strangely subdued but deadly hostility, who believe that our social ills can be corrected by a violent upheaval.

I have discovered from talking with them that they read this column because it is often anti-establishment and because it dares to assail men in high places. But the young idealists, so hopeless that they have become America's Red Guard, have missed the great truth in the stories I write.

This column, perhaps more than most, is a testament that the democratic processes work, and that it is possible to achieve reforms without violence. In the communist countries, whose rhetoric the young militants sometimes echo, no communist could survive who opposes its system and criticizes its leaders. There are no independent voices that can speak out freely against official iniquity and inequity.

In America, the free press is still able to right wrongs, bring down bad leaders and cause constructive change. This column, for example, brought charges that now jeopardize the reelection of a dozen powerful members of Congress.

The most celebrated is Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., a vice presidential finalist in 1964, who was censured by the Senate three years later and has now abandoned the fight for his party's renomination — because this column was free to write about his wrongdoing.

Senators in Trouble
Our stories about Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., and Vance Hartke, D-Ind., have raised issues which could defeat them in November. We reported that Murphy had been collecting $20,000 a year from right-wing millionaire Patrick Frawley's Technicolor, Inc., that Hartke had accepted favors from broadcaster Don Burden and a Chicago mail-order house, Spiegel Inc.

And the solid political base of Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., at least has been shaken by our story about his back room dealings with the insurance industry, drug industry and other special interests.

Democratic leaders in the Bronx attribute defeat of Rep. Jacob Gilbert, D-N.Y., in the recent primary to our report that he accepted $9,121 from the Seafarers Union at the same time he gave a Seafarers' lobbyist the run of his office.

Rep. Jim Collins, R-Tex., not only is in serious political trouble but is also under FBI investigation because we charged he had been taking kickbacks from congressional aides.

Rep. Bob Giaimo, D-Conn., is also having difficulty explaining to the voters why he did favors for Mafia figures. Our columns about Giaimo have resulted, too, in a grand jury investigation of Mafia infiltration into the fireworks business.

And Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., was thrown out of the House on the evidence this column developed. Though he was reinstated, the Harlem voters have refused him the Democratic nomination in a close primary race.

Exposés Pay Off
Looking back over the past six months, this column has succeeded in stimulating corrective action on a host of wrongs — thanks to our freedom to expose and oppose. Here are just a few examples:

In May seven men were indicted by a federal grand jury in Fort Worth, Tex., following our allegation that they had conspired to approve defective parts for the controversial F-111 fighter plane.

Our report on irregularities inside the Inter-American Development Bank led to an investigation by two House subcommittees. The House has now passed a resolution specifically barring some of the practices we exposed.

After our revelation that the Commerce and Transportation Department had authorized a $182,000 federal grant to build a road to the pet project of hate monger Gerald L.K. Smith, the grant was cancelled.

In January we reported that President Nixon's former law partner, Randolph Guthrie, was the moving force in a Swiss bank deal that would have been illegal if pulled off in the United States. The Securities and Exchange Commission has now reopened the case.

We also revealed that Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel and some of his top aides had lavishly redecored their offices in violation of federal regulations. This brought a swift hearing by a House Appropriations subcommittee which ordered new procedures to block future lawbreaking.

Henry J. Taylor Says Anarchy on TV Is Practiced

Infiltrated CBS, NBC and ABC still push on us such individuals as William Kunstler, attorney for the convicted Chicago 7, under the subterfuge, as usual, of "news."

Mr. Kunstler attended an Oakland, Calif., conference conducted by the Black Panthers. He stated in reference to the death of white policeman John Gleason in Plainfield, N.J., "The crowd, justifiable without the necessity of a trial, and in the most dramatic way possible, stomped him to death."

The William Kunstlers, et al., pushed into our nation's homes on TV, who proudly proclaim they are revolutionists, are not just hood-headed "generation gap" youngsters. They are adult mobsters with coordinated plans and defined goals.

Meanwhile, while criminals and their propaganda are literally featured at every turn by infiltrated CBS, NBC and ABC, the excellent, police-oriented programs, "The F.B.I." and "Adam 12," have been dropped.

This column has asked several times whether you think it's a coincidence that anybody — literally anybody, some anonymous person who is certainly not newsworthy at all — can achieve a nationwide TV news spot if he is condemning the United States, a university, the ROTC, any of our respected institutions, a judge in some courtroom, the American flag or the forces of law and order. Why?

Or if there is fighting in our streets, in even some little town, you can be sure the TV cameras will somehow be there. You can be equally sure that you can predict the ending: policemen clubbing people — with the provocations usually omitted — and, in the closing shot, dragging bleeding people away.

The anarchy that many people are being taught on TV they are practicing. "Teach anarchy and violence to the young," said Lenin. The respected National Association for Better Broadcasting reports that the average American child during the ages of 5 through 16 is subjected to 21 hours a week under the influence of TV.

The mayhem watched is now so immense that before reaching 16 this average child witnesses some 12,000 TV deaths. In one week, in just one city, TV stations showed nearly 800 acts of violence.

How can so many among us be blind to the profound helpfulness of all this to the Communist masters?

Anarchy — monumental anarchy — is on the planning boards in Moscow. The Kremlin men know that internal demoralization plus external encirclement, reinforced by nuclear blackmail, can equal overt or covert surrender.

The explosion of the first Soviet nuclear bomb in 1949 was the beginning of a redistribution in the balance of power. The Moscow center of worldwide Red manipulation has achieved a military stalemate.

Everywhere I go in the world the Communists live on the prestige of violence. Read today's dispatches from anywhere. By their conspiracies, their power grabs, their fifth-column groups, their propaganda of local terror, their clever appeals to people who do not know they are serving the Red cause, they strike at America from the inside. We are the chief target, for the United States is the only country the U.S.S.R. fears.

Russia does not intend to lick America, or even to fight America. Russia does not want actual war with us. Russia does not intend to have it. War with atomic-armed America would hurt Mother Russia. They are not fools. "They have very canny brains," as President Nixon himself once said.

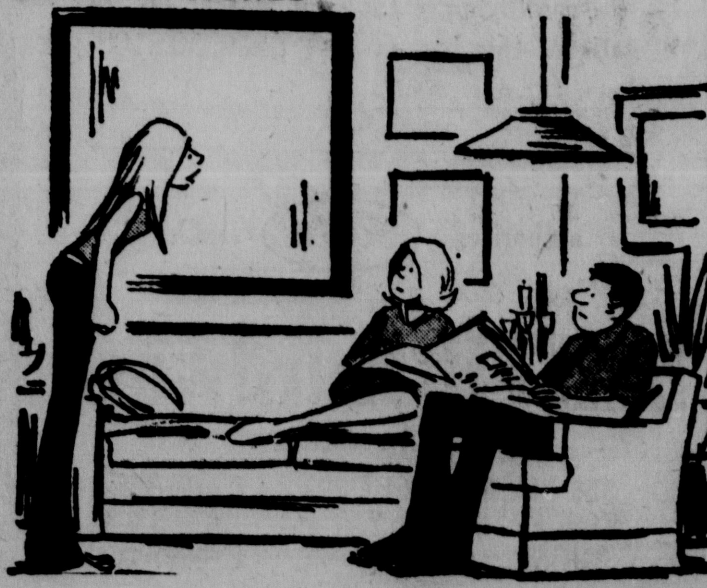

The Kremlin masters have a better idea. They expect us to lick ourselves. They expect us to knock ourselves out in our own gymnasium.

The Moscow planners are pursuing this idea every hour of the day and night. They know that the key to our world power is our home power. If our home power is lost our world power is lost. Everything the Kremlin masters do and say today is dedicated to cracking America's solidarity and sense of greatness.

This is why the constant, relentless TV featuring of the William Kunstlers, et al., and the steadily repeated TV violence are the greatest things that can happen for the Kremlin masters — really hitting the U.S.A. jackpot, sweeping the board of the winning stakes and breaking the bank all in one.

TV is the most powerful medium any civilization ever had. Don't the TV stations, getting a free ride on the public's airwaves, have any responsibility at all?

Area Consumer Survey

Newspaper Advertising Preferred

KINGSTON Shoppers in the Kingston trading area have overwhelmingly listed newspaper advertising most helpful to them.

In a recent Consumer Survey, 1,430 shoppers of 2,000 favored newspaper advertising while 412 gave their nod to radio.

Shoppers want better repair service for household items, better parking facilities, standardized shopping hours and closed stores on national holidays. They also show a preference for evening shopping.

The survey was conducted by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in November of 1969 in cooperation with the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club, local stores, the Business Division of the Ulster County Community College and interested citizens.

The Chamber's Consumer Services Committee, headed by Mrs. Ross H. Neher of Kingston, launched the 1969 survey on Friday, Nov. 21. It was the first consumer survey made in this area since 1957. Questionnaires were filled in by shoppers at booths set up at J. C. Penney's, Sears, Wallaces, Montgomery Ward and Waldbaums. In addition to the Consumer Day campaign, members of a Consumer Advisory Panel, an outside task force directed by the Civic Participation Committee of the Ulster County BPW Club, distributed questionnaires throughout the Kingston area.

The UCCC Business Division tabulated 2,000 returns, two-thirds of which indicated Kingston stores handled orders efficiently. On the question of standard hours, some stores in the Kingston area open at 9:30 while others open at 10. Out of town and local shoppers cite this as an inconvenience and they leave little doubt that parking facilities determines where they will shop.

Shopping plazas were preferred by the majority of consumers while 250 questionnaires circulated in the Rondout area indicated a strong desire for the return of businesses dealing with food, clothing, pharmaceuticals, dry cleaning, hardware, laundromats and restaurants.

Serving with Mrs. Neher on the Chamber's Consumer Services Committee were Richard Swoboda of Waldbaums; Ron Every, State of New York Bank; Richard Mathews, Colonial Carpet; Stanley London, London's; Phil Dolan, Sears; Bertha Gally, Gally Real Estate, and Virginia Ellis, Credit Bureau.

On the Consumer Advisory Panel with Chairman Mrs. Maureen Graham were: Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, Woman's Page Editor, The Daily Freeman; Mrs. Melinda Davis, community organizer, Rondout Neighborhood Multi-Service Center; Mrs. Phyllis W. Barlow, Ulster County Cooperative Extension Service; Mrs. Eleanor Selzo, Welcome Wagon; Mrs. Robert Resta, president, AAUW; Mrs. Elga Curtis, president, Senior Citizens Club; and Howard Mills, instructor, Business Department at UCCC.

KINGSTON Len Cane, executive vice-president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, has been elected to the board of directors of the New York State Chamber of Commerce Executives.

New Caldor Store to Open

NORWALK, CONN. Caldor, Inc., the regional discount department store chain, will open its new Rocky Hill store in Mid-August, according to Julius Kasinitz, vice-president of operations.

Rocky Hill will be followed by the Avon store opening in October, Kasinitz said, bringing to 16 the number of stores in the chain, located in New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

The Rocky Hill store, visible from Interstate 91, is about midway between Hartford and Meriden, Conn. Heavy emphasis will be placed on soft goods, according to Rubin Freedman, vice-president of merchandising, with about 50 per cent of the selling area allocated to apparel, furnishings and other goods as in the Wallingford store.

The chain's growth in the last decade has climbed to nearly $92-million from $3.6-million in 1960. The chain reported a 14 per cent increase in sales and a five per cent increase in earnings for the first quarter of the current year.

Carl Bennett, president, cited two prime factors of this. He stated "We were fortunate in that the unemployment factor did not affect the areas in which our stores are located, and our inventories were in balance, avoiding the necessity of unusual markdowns during this period."

P'keepsie Cycle Incident— Driver Arrested 3 Times

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (UPI) — Francis C. Padowski, 26, was arrested not once but three times Wednesday night after wrecking his motorcycle.

Police in the nearby town of Poughkeepsie said they spotted Padowski speeding on the Dutchess Turnpike and gave chase.

Father Walsh Dies at Hospital

KINGSTON — The Rev. Maurice Walsh, pastor of St. John's R.C. Church, West Hurley, St. Joan of Arc Chapel, Woodstock, and St. Augustine's Chapel, West Shokan, died this morning at Benedictine Hospital.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Ellen Walsh of New York City and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Ehardt of Hicksville, L.I., and Mrs. Julia Murphy of Long Island and Mrs. Helen Bachynsky of New York City.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by the Lasher Funeral Home, Inc., Woodstock.

He pulled off the road, wrecked his cycle, and took off on foot. Padowski was caught near a service station, after attendant Douglas Doty alerted police to his whereabouts.

Taken to police headquarters and charged with speeding, unlicensed operating and failure to comply, Padowski then walked back to the service station and beat up Doty, police said. That led to charges of third degree assault and tampering with a witness.

Padowski's third arrest came after he started a fight with Ptl. Jack Eciert, police said. He was charged with second degree assault and also harassment of two other policemen.

At that point, Padowski tore up his traffic tickets, police said.

He was jailed in lieu of a total of $6,000 bail for a hearing July 14.

Obituary Correction

Schuyler Mondore of RD 3, Box 268, Saugerties, who died Tuesday evening, is survived by a son Michael of Woodstock. In Wednesday's edition of The Freeman it was stated that Michael Mondore was a resident of Saugerties.

Dog Money

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Counting dogs can be a profitable pursuit for police departments. But what do they do with the proceeds?

Local officials asked State Comptroller Arthur Levitt if the funds could be used to purchase a group life insurance policy. "There is no reason why not," said the comptroller.

HUNGRY SQUIRREL — On a daily schedule this squirrel in Beverly, Mass., waits until the lunch crowd leaves the park area before going to his favorite food area . . . here he peeks from the refuse can to see if the way is clear before exiting. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Local Death Record

Mrs. Helen M. Young

Mrs. Helen M. Young, wife of A. Theodore Young of 163 Elmendorf Street, died suddenly Wednesday morning. A high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul at St. Joseph's Church, Saturday, at 11 a.m. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends may call at the A. In Memoriam

In loving memory of Richard H. Whalen, who passed away 11 years ago today, July 9. God took him home, it was His will.

But in our hearts we love him still.

His memory is as dear today. As in the hour he passed away. We often sit and think of him. When we are all alone. For memory is the only friend. That grief can call its own.

WIFE, CHILDREN and GRANDCHILDREN

Memorial

In loving memory of our dear Mother and Nanna, Mrs. Jeanette Corcoran, who passed away seven years ago today, July 9, 1963.

MOTHER
Your memory lives amongst us, With every passing year. We see it in the faces. Of those you loved so dear. Your nearness we can always feel.

In everything we do, A smiling face, a loving word. Is just like having you.

Love, JEAN & JIM,
JEAN CAROL, JIMMY and STEPHAN

Memorial

In loving memory of my wife, Hazel J. Gray, who passed away two years ago today, July 9, 1968.

I have lost my soul's companion. A life linked with my own. And day by day, I miss her more.

As I walk through life alone. A happy home we once enjoyed. How sweet the memory still. But death has left a loneliness. The world can never still. The midnight stars are shining. On a lonely and silent grave. Beneath where sleeps the one I love and who I could not save.

I think of her in silence and often repeat her name. But all that is left to answer is a picture in a frame. Oh God, please take this message to my loved one up above.

Tell her how much I miss her and give her all my love. Love Always, life resident of Saugerties and has served as cubmaster of Troop 36 Cub Scouts, has assisted his church in many endeavors, has enjoyed a baseball career with the Eagles, Saugerties A.C., Saugerties Bushwicks and in both the Twilight and Firemanic leagues.
HUSBAND

WILLIAM MCCORMICK SR.

Married to the former Lillian Hennegan, he has a son, Bill and granddaughter, Kelly.

The McCormicks have a family tradition in firemanics. Bill's father, William V. McCormick, was a member of the H. D. Laffin Hose Company and served as chief of the Saugerties Fire Department in 1897; while the Grand Marshal's brother, Frank, was a member of the T. B. Cornwall Hose Company and brother, James served with both the Laffin and Cornwall companies. Since joining the T. B. Cornwall Hose Company 2 in August, 1922, Bill's firemanic career has touched all the bases and then some. His 20 years with that company saw service as second lieutenant in 1928, first lieutenant in 1929, and captain in 1930. In the Saugerties Fire Department he held the offices of second assistant chief in 1931, first assistant chief in 1932, and department chief in 1933.

Bill was present when C. A. Lynch Hose Company was formed in 1942 and is still an active member. He was treasurer of Lynch's since 1945 and secretary since 1963. On a wider scale, has been a delegate to several Hudson Valley Conventions, was a committee member for the 1934 Hudson Valley Convention, the 1960 Ulster County Convention, and currently serves on the committee of the 1970 County Convention.

DAR Presents American Flag

SAUGERTIES

An American flag was presented the Asbury Katsbaan Fire Company and Auxiliary recently by the Saugerties Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Presented at a meeting of the auxiliary it was accepted from Mrs. Lewis Gaylord, regent of the chapter, by Mrs. Werner Tiedtke and Peter Morley, presidents of the auxiliary and fire company. Also attending from the DAR were Mrs. William Young, flag chairman; Mrs. Daniel Lamouree, chaplain and Mrs. George Darrow.

Woodstock News

Noon Forum Launches Art Summer School

WOODSTOCK

The Art Students League Summer School will start its 1970 schedule Friday with a noon forum featuring three new artists who will address themselves to the question "Art or art? Large 'A' or Small 'a'?"

They are Gary Hill, David Newman and Eva Plaut. Artist and league instructor Bruce Dorfman will moderate the forum which will be held at the Art Students League Summer School on Rt. 212 about a mile from the Woodstock Village Green in the direction of Saugerties.

Hill, who is primarily a sculptor, has exhibited in Los Angeles at the Ryder Gallery and in New York at the Walcott-Fields Gallery. Born in California in 1951, he first came to Woodstock in 1969 with a scholarship to the Art Students League. During the winter of 1969-70, he participated in the Workshop Studio of Woodstock.

Newman, painter and printmaker, studied at the University of Colorado, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, and the Art Students League. His work is included in several private collections and was chosen for exhibition in Altman's special showing of a small group of works from the Art Students League last winter.

Mrs. Plaut, a painter, is presently showing her work at the 35th annual exhibition at the Albany Institute. It follows her recent inclusion in the 21st annual New England Exhibition at the Silvermine Guild.

Mrs. Plaut has exhibited work at the Walcott-Fields Gallery in New York City and has had one-man shows at the Three Arts Gallery and at Marist College in Poughkeepsie. For the past five years she has lectured in 19th and 20th century art. She is a graduate of St. Martin's School of Art in London and also studied at the Art Students League.

Goldberg Begins Swing Through Mohawk Valley

By United Press International
Goldberg campaign spokesman Arthur J. Goldberg, Democrat, Liberal candidate for governor, began a campaign swing through the Mohawk Valley today after his running mate was in Syracuse to receive the endorsement of the United Auto Workers meeting.

The former U.S. Supreme Court Justice's upstate swing will be similar to the "town meetings" his opponent, Governor Rockefeller, has held in the past.

Goldberg will make a two-day trip to Utica, Herkimer, Amsterdam and Schenectady to participate in "community hearings."

"The candidate wants to hold a dialogue and exchange views on problems that are of the greatest local concern," a

Goldberg campaign spokesman said.

The Democratic state ticket was endorsed Wednesday by the 250-member United Auto Workers Community Action Program Council, which represents 75,000 UAW members in the state.

Accepting the endorsement, State Sen. Basil A. Paterson, the nominee for lieutenant governor, said more publicity was given to Governor Rockefeller's labor backing, but a final tabulation would show the Democrats with greater labor support.

The other Democratic candidates endorsed were Arthur J. Goldberg for governor; Arthur Levitt for comptroller; Rep. Richard L. Ottinger for Senate, and Adam Walinsky for attorney general.

Another Problem For New Albany Mall

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The center of the 99-acre South Mall 44-story state South Mall tower must now be completed either by state workers, another contractor or through a bonding agent.

Gen. C.V.R. Schuyler, head of the State Office of General Services, terminated a contract with a Long Island firm which was building the tower.

Schuyler had listed the three alternatives last week, when he gave a July 8 deadline to Foster-Lipkins Corp. of Great Neck to either finish the job or get out.

The action came in a dispute involving the company's demand for an additional $21 million—a demand that would have doubled the cost of the tower, the

'No Contest' Is Declared In Tug of War

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI) — Last weekend's tug of war between two towns to decide which is the oldest was declared "no contest" by officials of both towns Wednesday night.

The town chairman for Glenville and Rotterdam issued the ruling "because of crowd interference."

The much-publicized tug of war on the banks of the Mohawk River Sunday ended after bystanders on each side of the river joined in the tug.

The rope used for the tug of war, the chairmen said, will be cut into 300 equal pieces—one for each of the 300 "official" tuggers.

Both centennial tug of war committees will host a party for members July 26 at a site to be made known only to the official team members.

The tug of war was staged to prove which of the towns—both incorporated on the same date—was the oldest.

The "no contest" ruling was issued by Glenville chairman, Jim Gemmett, and Rotterdam chairman, Jim Reutter, and by the representatives of both of the 150-member teams.

Rummage Sale

Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge 34 will sponsor a rummage sale to be held in the Republican Club Headquarters on Partition Street on July 16, 17, and 18 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday and Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday.

The store will be open on July 15 to receive articles for the sale. All members are requested to give whatever they cannot use any longer but which may be of some use to someone else.

Appointments Listed by Oteora Board

BOICEVILLE
At a recent reorganization meeting, the school board of the Oteora Central School district made the following appointments for the next school year:

President, Jack Kahn; vice-president, Peter Rakov; district clerk, Dr. Donald Carson; act. district clerk, Watson Goodrich; treasurer, Mrs. Frances Shultis; tax collector, Mrs. Helen Andersen; auditors, Ronder and Ronder; school attorney, Alvin Moscovitz, and chief school physician, Dr. Edward Shea, and his associates, Dr. Paul LePaige and Dr. Kenneth Bremer.

Killer Fatally Beats Two With Claw Hammer

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (UPI) — A killer armed with a claw hammer fatally beat a 10-year-old boy and his grandmother and critically injured three other members of the family before setting fire to their house Wednesday.

A passing police officer discovered the fire and called firemen, who found the bodies sprawled throughout the one-story home.

The body of Kim Senff was found on the living room floor, near where the fire had been started. A claw hammer and an empty gasoline can were found nearby. Police could give no reasons for the attack.

Kim was pronounced dead on arrival at San Gabriel Community Hospital, where his grandmother, Mrs. W. E. Chapman, 53, died late Wednesday.

Kim's mother, Gloria, 33, and his sister, Jennie, 6, were reported in very critical condition. His father, Fred, 39, was listed in critical condition.

Police said the brutal attack may be related to the beating of Lloyd Walters, 87, Monday. Walters was critically beaten in his Rosemead home and a bloody claw hammer was found nearby.

Rosemead and San Gabriel are adjacent cities in Los Angeles County near Pasadena.

$9 Billion Appropriation To Veterans Administration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has approved a $9 billion appropriation for the Veterans Administration, including $1.8 billion for medical care that is $105 million more than President Nixon requested and the House approved.

The measure — providing funds for the current business year which began July 1 — was approved Wednesday after heavy criticism was leveled against conditions of VA hospitals and treatment given Vietnam War veterans.

The Senate-approved bill now goes to a joint conference committee where the $1.85 billion for medical care in the Senate bill will have to be reconciled with $1.77 billion in the House-approved measure.

In the House, the Ways and Means Committee tentatively approved a proposal that would make it easier for industries and workers to get loans, technical assistance and tax relief if they are injured by the economic repercussions of imports.

Under the proposal, industries and workers would only have to prove that increased imports were a "substantial" cause of injury, rather than a "primary" cause in order to become eligible for help.

The House Agriculture Committee approved a bill that would authorize the use of a $4.2 million wheat-tax fund to conduct a market research and promotion program for the crop.

The House, in a 381-0 vote, instructed its Ethics Committee to look into campaign fund raising and spending and congressional lobbying with a view to improving the 1946 reorganization controlling lobbying activities and campaign spending.

Half Million in Sight for North Dutchess Appeal

RHINEBECK Rhinebeck will help swell the total to go over the half million mark. The goal established for the General Appeal drive has been set at $500,000.

The hospital, which is located in Rhinebeck, is presently conducting a Capital Funds campaign, in the communities it serves to raise $700,000 through public subscriptions toward the hospital's $1,200,000 total new Building Program.

Leonard Zneimer, general appeal chairman, in announcing several new area chairmen, appointments, stated, "In order to raise the $100,000 and to help insure the success of the $700,000 campaign, memorial plaques have been made available for those contributing in the $300 to $1,000 range."

Pledges may be made over a three-year period, payable as the donor wishes. Several Community Memorial plaques such as Cornerstone ($300), Founders ($500) and Patrons ($1,000) are available in the new 50-bed Extended Care Facility and the new Administrative Wing for every donor.

In addition, designated memorial plaques ranging from $1,200 to $25,000 can also be selected.

The recent area chairmen appointments are: (Hyde Park) Harold Clay and Raymond Hill; (Staatsburg) Mrs. Thomas Frost and for Standfordville, Mrs. Dennis Buonacore.

The General Appeal solicitation which is presently being conducted is in need of more volunteer solicitors in the areas the hospital services, namely, Clinton, Elizaville, Germantown, Hyde Park, Milan, Pine Plains, Pleasant Valley, Red Hook, Staatsburg, Stanford and Tivoli in addition to Rhinebeck.

Additional volunteer enlistments received to date at the campaign offices, 86 Montgomery Street, Rhinebeck are: (Hyde Park) Edward Blodgett, Mapledoram Fink, Mrs. Leonard Healy and Mrs. Norman Shurts; (Red Hook) Ray Brenzel, Mrs. H. Field, and Mrs. B. Williams; (Rhinebeck) Mrs. Robert Decker, Mrs. Charles Gamberdinger, Mrs. Thomas McConville, Mrs.

William McKeefrey, Mrs. E. J. Munroe, Mrs. Joseph R. Tuttle, Jr. and Mrs. William White; (Staatsburg) Mrs. R. Ernest Boice, Mrs. Robert R. Gross, Mrs. Harry F. Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Lance Keller, Mrs. Frances Mark, Mrs. Bohdan Mazur, Mrs. A. W. Salter and Mrs. George Wieser.

Throughout the campaign adult volunteers have been providing clerical assistance at the campaign offices. In addition, since their vacation period from school has begun, the following youngsters and teenagers have provided many hours in addressing the necessary campaign literature to be forwarded to prospects: Charlie Armstrong, Danny Doherty, Jeff Espie, Sherri Justus, Kim Milroy, Elizabeth Rovere, Cathy Staunton, Jayne Stone, Larry Strenk, Lynda M. Strenk, Mary Strenk, Patti L. Strenk, Ronnie A. Strenk, Jimmi Weckessor and Vicki L. Williams.

In an appeal directed to every volunteer solicitor, Mark Morse, campaign general chairman, said, "Our drive has been making excellent progress and we need only look to the total raised to date to substantiate such." "However," he added, "there is much more to be done before the $700,000 will be realized. Thus, I am asking each solicitor to please make every possible effort to visit and complete their prospect calls as soon as they can."

The campaign which began in March, 1970 is expected to be completed this month. Ground breaking will take place in the Fall, 1970 with completion date in the Spring, 1971.

Honors For YMCA

KINGSTON National recognition was given this week to the Kingston and Ulster County Young Men's Christian Association for its health and physical education program. A Certificate of Merit was awarded in recognition of the high quality of service performed by the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA in helping this community develop physical, emotional and social health as well as fitness leadership based on Christian principles.

The Certificate, presented by the National Council of YMCAs through its National and Area/State Physical Education committee, allows the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA to enter its registered amateur athletes in official area and national sports competition with other YMCAs around the country. It can also participate in our National Physical Education Programs.

The Certification is given every three years to those Associations requesting it, and who meet the standards set by the YMCA National Health and Physical Education Committee. To meet these standards the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA, according to James Lapak, Physical Education Director, must conduct a balanced and interesting program of physical education; have a physical education committee and volunteer leaders to give guidance in policy and program development, and use the National YMCA Aquatic Program in its building, the community and its camp.

It must also maintain qualified professional leadership to guide its program, operate in accordance with an adequate up-to-date written policy and be a member in good standing of the National Council of YMCAs.

"Perhaps most important of all," Lapak said, "a local Association receiving the Certificate must continually evaluate, revise, amplify and modernize its physical education program to meet changing community needs." The YMCA is a member of the Ulster County Community Chest.

RHINEBECK: Zoning Hearing Draws Capacity Crowd

By TIM SCHUSTER

A capacity crowd of about 150 Rhinebeck residents attended the Town Zoning Commission's third public hearing on the proposed zoning law Wednesday night, and comment ran the gamut from "no zoning at all" to "stricter zoning."

James Way, Rhinecliff, a civil engineer, said, "This zoning map is discriminatory and reactionary," and alleged that the federal government is pressing suits against similar laws which attempt to "stem the tide of people coming north."

A personal attack was leveled against Planning Board and Zoning Commission Chairman Homer K. Staley by Robert Love, who recommended to the town board that Staley be asked to disqualify himself as a chairman because of "conflict of interest."

Industrialist Robert Fried summed up his feelings on why the town should designate the Astor Flats area commercial instead of the presently proposed agricultural and residential.

He stated that property he had vested interests in amounted to "five per cent of the land in Rhinebeck," and that real estate man Staley had represented the Astor Flats property to be hurt, but helped.

He also said that 100,000 square feet of floor space was essential, which would make a minimum of 12.3 acres, with parking lots, the smallest possible amount of land acceptable, and this was not to be found in the village.

"We are competing with Kingston," he said. "The Rhinebeck Chamber of Commerce is conducting a study to determine the shopping habits of Rhinebeck residents, and why they travel to Kingston."

Resident Arthur Karl said that "they are putting another big shopping center up in Port Even, and when the new arterial is built this will be one more plaza within six or seven miles of us."

NEW PALTZ: Several Subjects

By JON POWERS

NEW PALTZ
Claiming that the elderly are being discriminated against because they can't find adequate, low cost housing in the Town of New Paltz, several persons urged Wednesday night that the town trailer ordinance be revised in order to provide low income families with homes.

The New Paltz Town Board, however, did not take any official action on the appeal at its regular meeting. Town

Supervisor Anthony Moriello, in explaining why the current trailer ordinance exists in its present form, said that there was "considerable public sentiment against trailers when the original law was passed."

Town board officials and members of the audience dwelled in some length on the establishment of trailer parks in the area if the current ordinance is revised.

Most of those who took part in the discussion agreed that trailer parks, under the management and supervision of "apathetic landlords," could destroy the area where they are located.

Several in the audience pointed out the near-slim conditions at several area trailer parks were mentioned.

Others contended, however, that there exist several ideal sites for potential trailer parks in the town and that they would be utilized to this purpose in order to provide low income housing.

ROSENDALE: Dissolution

By NANCY SULLIVAN

ROSENDALE
The Village of Rosendale would save $16,000 to $18,000 by dissolving.

suggested at this meeting that the village look into the dissolution of other villages to find out what dissolution would involve.

It was noted that present law on the dissolution of a third class village is not clear and it was stated that "proper legislation would be the way to go about dissolution."

It also was decided at this meeting of the town and village with the Conference of Mayors and the Association of Towns that a public hearing will be held in the fall when the facts can be presented to residents of Rosendale.

Mayor Carl Grassi stated at Wednesday night's village board meeting that village and town officials recently met with the Conference of Mayors and the Association of Towns. It was discussed a petition presented by about 20 persons from the Cherry Hill section of New Paltz requesting establishment of a new sewer district for that vicinity.

Town Clerk Theodore Lasher was instructed by the board to contact the signees of the petition and inform them that before the board can grant their request a study must be made at their expense.

58 Vehicles Entered In Clean Air Race

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Fifty-eight vehicles from 44 schools have entered the 3,600-mile, cross-country clean air car race Aug. 15 and as many as 70 are expected by the July 15 deadline, officials announced Wednesday.

The student-run race, designed to demonstrate automobiles using low pollution propulsion systems is the second one organized by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology here and California Technological Institute in Pasadena.

The race starts at MIT. The newest entries include the student who is the closest thing there is to a defending champion in intercollegiate clean car competition. He is Wally E. Rippel, now a graduate student at Cornell University.

Two years ago, when Rippel was a student at Cal Tech, he raced a battery-powered electric car which he built against a similar type car built by a group of MIT students. They drove in opposite directions across country between Pasadena and Cambridge. The MIT car finished first, but it had to be towed so much that penalties gave the victory to Rippel, whose car did not have to be towed at all.

Speeding on Lawrenceville Road persists, commented one village resident. Mayor Grassi said that the state officials have been contacted and will be coming to the area possibly to authorize the village to install signs to end the speeding. It also was suggested that the State Police be contacted and radar be set up in the area to control the speeders.

"IT'S BREATHING" — Gary Freer (R) "rescued" a baby starling after discovering that the bird had fallen from the roof of his home. The tiny bird looked like it was dead but Gary took care of "Little Peep" by feeding it worms and dog food. Assisting in the recovery of the starling is Diane Freer. The bird is about five days old now and is "doing well." (Freeman photo by Haines).

Minor Pension Provisions but They Mean Windfall

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—There are only two relatively minor provisions of the state Constitution affecting pensions of public employees, but both provide a windfall for the state worker. The most lucrative, which is not found anywhere in pension plans of private enterprise, provides that retirement allowances paid by the state are exempt from state income tax. The second unique provision says pension benefits once awarded cannot be diminished.

In any way, regardless of changes in the nature of the job for which they are given. The decision to exempt state pension from New York's income tax arose in the 1938 Constitutional Convention in a backward way. The delegates' original intention was to insure that it was clear the state would collect tax on the salaries of state workers.

Not Active The assumption was that since a pensioner is no longer an officer or employee, the section in question referred only to those workers still on the active payroll.

Later in the convention, during a discussion of an amendment to the proposed tax article, Lieutenant Governor and later Gov. Charles Poletti explained the thrust of the section was to make it "clear that the legislature shall have the power to impose taxes upon all officers and employees of the state and its subdivisions."

The convention approved the article 128-9. Voters gave approval of a series of articles including the ued, "that all officers and employees of the state feel that they wish to pay taxes, an income tax on their income, just as every citizen in the state with a certain income is obliged to do. I think this is a very worthwhile and progressive measure."

The retirement benefit contributed by the employee. The pension part is paid by the state and is not subject to state income taxes either when paid weekly or collected after retirement.

In recent years, the state has moved toward making pension plans non-contributory by the employee. Pensions usually are based on the employee's salary for the best or last three or five years of employment by the state. State employee contracts under Taylor Law negotiations have increased salaries throughout the state which, in turn, improves the pension payment.

Recognize Rights Of Others

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Some timely stitches could be worked into the ripping fabric of American society if all who assert the right to do their own thing would recognize that the other guy also has the same right. As a reporter who has covered more than his fair share of demonstrations, peaceful and otherwise, I have observed that people who demand a great deal of tolerance from society are often quite intolerant of others. The ruckus which a very small body of young people kicked up at Washington's "Honor America Day" ceremony last Saturday is a case in point.

There were perfectly valid reasons for questioning the wisdom of staging an exercise in nationalism at a time when the land is so deeply and bitterly divided over Vietnam. But it's one thing to disapprove of a ceremony, and another thing to set out deliberately to disrupt it. The latter is what some 200 young men and women did Saturday, in the name of dissent from the Vietnam War.

You'd think that opponents of the war would be ardent upholders of the rights of free speech and peaceable assembly which are guaranteed to all Americans by the First Amendment to the Constitution. After all, they'd be the first to suffer from any repeal or suspension of those rights. But in their passionate protest against the war, some dissenters seem to forget that the First Amendment also applies to straights, squares and patriots. If the latter want to come together on the Fourth of July and wave the flag, they have a right to do so untroubled, unchecked and undisturbed.

Certainly they have a right to pray to the God they believe in, without having their prayers almost drowned out by loudly chanted obscenities. And this right to dissent from dissent is not just a legal right. It's a basic human right, which ought to be understood and respected by those who are vehemently opposed to the war precisely because of their concern for human life and dignity.

City Speeders Hit With Fines Of $10 to $50

KINGSTON — Exceeding the city's speed limit of 30 miles an hour, cost motorists checked by radar equipment fines ranging from $10 to $50 after they pleaded guilty Wednesday before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Zeno Wicks, of Box 58, Accord, who police said appeared in court and pleaded guilty to speeding a second time, was fined $50.

Motorists who paid $20 each where listed as Janet Nemeth, 33, of Wallkill, and Dora A. Rider, 21, of High Falls.

Fines of $15 were imposed by Judge Richter for Joseph S. Storch, 40, of New Paltz, Shirley Marquis, 33, of Glenford and Henry V. Fallerman, 59, of Tilton.

Those who paid $10 each were George D. Hala, 20, of Islip, was fined $15 for speeding, and he paid $5 each for driving a car with stud snow tires, and operating a motor vehicle with three in the front seat. The car he drove had bucket seats and the seating in front is limited to two.

Negligence Blamed in Subway Deaths

NEW YORK (AP) — A Queens grand jury has concluded that the May 20 subway collision that killed two persons and injured scores more was caused by "grossly negligent" human errors and several "inherently dangerous" aspects of the subway system.

Queens Dist. Atty. Thomas Mackell announced the findings Wednesday.

He noted that the grand jury had not found sufficient proof for indictments, but he said "something should be done" immediately about the subway system "because it isn't safe."

William J. Roman, chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, immediately denied the charge.

Two other official reports on the crash have been issued.

One, by the Mayor's Subway Service Watchdog Commission, blamed "bad engineering and poor maintenance;" the other by the MTA, cited, "human failure."

The collision occurred after an Independent line subway train, taken out of service, suddenly started up and crashed into a Manhattan-bound, commuter-filled train at the Roosevelt Avenue station in Queens.

The three men aboard the disabled train have been suspended from regular duties pending the outcome of departmental hearings.

The grand jury found the principal causes of the collision were: failure of the three to communicate with each other or the station, even though surrounded by danger signals; use of personnel "who have repeatedly demonstrated manifest disregard for standards of safety;" and "inherently dangerous automatic braking equipment."

The grand jury said the motorman on the disabled train, Anthony Haynes, had been involved in 12 previous cases of violating prescribed safety measures during his nine years with the subway system.

HEADED FOR AUCTION BLOCK—Glen Cove Mayor Andrew Dipaola stated, that Killenworth, the 36-acre estate owned by the Soviet Delegation to the United Nations, will soon be sold at auction unless the Russians pay $50,000 in back taxes. The Russians contend that, under state law, it does not have to pay taxes on the property because it is used as an ambassadorial office residence on a year-round basis. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Conn. Man Is Arrested on Flag Charge

POUGHKEEPSIE

A 22-year-old Connecticut man was arrested at 10 p.m. Wednesday by Town of Poughkeepsie Police after he was found wearing a blue denim jacket with an American flag sewn to it upside down.

Police received a complaint about the man who had been seen walking along Vassar Road. Patrolman Alfred Smith investigated and picked up Reginald E. Ward Jr., of 151 Old Kingdom Road, Wilton, Conn. Ward was booked for illegally displaying the American flag, a violation of the General Business Law. Arraigned before Town Justice Lyle B. Quick, Ward entered a plea of innocent. In lieu of $1,500 bail he was committed to the Dutchess County jail pending a hearing on July 13 at 10 a.m.

200-Foot Fall Kills Counselor

KEENE VALLEY, N.Y. (AP) — A 16-year-old counselor leading a group of boys on a hiking trip near this Adirondack community was killed Wednesday night in a fall from a 200-foot high ledge on Giant Mountain.

State police said Harvey Dearth of Glens Falls was a counselor for the group of 25 boys, aged 10 to 12.

The boys were hiking in the Roaring Brook area of the 4,622-foot mountain, a few miles southeast of Keene Valley. Police said Dearth left the group at about 5 p.m., saying he wanted to do some exploring nearby.

After he failed to return to camp for dinner, the other hikers searched. They found his body at the foot of the ledge. Coroner Alfonso Goff of Essex County said Dearth died of a fractured skull and neck.

Rogers on Communist China; Key to Future of Indochina

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China is the "key to the future of Indochina," Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today, and if Peking would "talk sensibly" about a settlement for the war, the Nixon administration thinks it "could work out a peaceful settlement very quickly."

Rogers also said in a television interview with NHK, the Japan Broadcasting Corp., that the U.S. military presence in Asia would be unnecessary if "Communist China would ever stop its belligerent attitude toward its neighbors."

Rogers did not indicate whether Washington has made any approaches to the Chinese concerning Indochina.

But he did say: "We have done everything we can to improve our relations with China. They have given some indication they might like to improve relations, but so far the progress has been very slow."

The secretary of state said he believes Thailand, Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam, "cooperating and working together with other Asian nations, will be able to maintain their independence."

"And we think, too," he went on, "that Cambodia—because of its feeling of nationalism, because it has been invaded by the North Vietnamese—has a good chance of retaining a non-Communist government."

Asked how the withdrawal of 150,000 U.S. troops from South Vietnam by next May would affect the security of that part of Southeast Asia, Rogers said the South Vietnamese government now has about 1,034,000 troops, "well armed, well equipped, well trained, and we think that those troops, together with our air power and the remaining American troops and the troops from Thailand and South Korea, will be able to maintain the security of South Vietnam."

In a speech earlier today, Rogers said the United States will not allow differences with Japan in the commercial field to cause a rupture between the two countries.

"Japan has to play a part in the security of this part of the world," he told the U.S. Embassy staff. "Japan is in a position in the years ahead to play an important part in security, not only here, but in the world generally."

"The fact that we have had a breakdown in textile negotiations will not affect the reversion of Okinawa to Japan."

Rogers discussed Japanese-American disputes over trade with Prime Minister Eisaku Sato and other Japanese officials Wednesday.

He said the abrasiveness, or anything like that, that would cause a rupture from time to time with Japan, because both nations are in great industrial powers, the commercial field to cause "But I have not detected any that."

Wilson - Phelan Wedding

MRS. JOHN J. PHELAN JR.

Miss Sheila Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan D. Wilson, of Bearsville, exchanged marriage vows during a double ring ceremony with John J. Phelan Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Phelan Sr. of Shokan on Saturday, June 27 at 1 p.m. in St. Joan of Arc Chapel, Woodstock. The Rev. Gerald O'Shea officiated. Mrs. Aleksander Narel was organist and Walter A. Nealy, uncle of the bride, was vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a self designed gown of white lace over satin featuring a high bodice and short sleeves. Her veil, made of the same lace, was held by a coronet of white satin. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of white daisies which were highlighted with white streamers.

Mrs. Louise Musialkiewicz of Kingston served as matron of honor in a pale blue long sleeved, A-line gown, trimmed with lace and featuring a floating ribbon streamer in the back. She wore a short blue veil headpiece held by a circlet of blue daisies and carried an old fashioned bouquet of blue and white daisies with blue streamers.

Best man was Donald Megna of Beacon.

A reception was given at Herbert's Restaurant, Madison Avenue, Albany.

For her wedding trip the bride selected a pink dress with white accessories.

The bride was graduated from Immanuel Lutheran School in 1963 and Kingston High School, Class of 1967.

She is employed as a toll operator by Albany Telephone Company, Albany. Her husband is employed as foreman by the Albany Telephone Company, Troy.

Mr. and Mrs. Hornyak will make their home at 523 Clinton Avenue, Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Lasher of 97 St. James Street, Kingston, announce the marriage of their daughter Dorene Carolyn, to Ronald Hornyak of Albany on May 2 in St. John's Lutheran Church of Albany with the Rev. Mr. Butz officiating. The bridegroom is the son of Alex Hornyak of Mechanicville and Mrs. Helen Hornyak of New York City.

The bride wore a street length dress of white lace over taffeta and a veil of white tulle. She carried white gladioli.

Mrs. Patricia Moore served as matron of honor. She wore a blue lace over taffeta dress accented with white daisies

'Camerata Chorale' Elects Officers

Mid-Hudson Camerata Chorale recently elected new Board members and officers at their annual meeting. Curtice White, Hyde Park, was reelected to the presidency of the organization. Other officers elected were Mrs. Charlotte Seager, Poughkeepsie, vice-president; Miss Ruth Ehlers, Wappingers Falls, secretary; and David Merriell, Poughkeepsie, treasurer.

New Board members elected for three year terms were Mrs. Margot Brockmeyer, Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Claudia Goodfellow, Hyde Park; and David Merriell, Lee H. Pritchard, Asst. Professor of Music, SUNY, New Paltz is the musical director, and William E. Cady, supervisor of music in the Hyde Park School system serves as assistant director.

Plans for three concerts to be presented during the 1970-1971 season were submitted by the Music Committee, and include an all Renaissance program, a Motet concert, and a program featuring Vivaldi's "Chamber Mass" and other choral works.

During the current summer season the Camerata Chorale is singing on two different concert series with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic orchestra. The "Clearwater," series of six concerts is being presented through a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts, and is intended to dramatize the campaign against water pollution in the Hudson River Valley. Concerts are being given in conjunction with Arts Festivals when the "Clearwater" sloop docks at the following river cities: Cold Spring, Newburgh, Kingston, Bear Mountain, Poughkeepsie, and Nyack. The first three programs have been presented. The remaining three will be offered on July 25, August 1, and August 29, respectively.

Because of the Chorale's involvement with the Philharmonic there will be no Choral Music Reading Concerts this summer. For the past three years the Chorale has co-sponsored summer reading sessions in conjunction with the Music Department at New Paltz College. These will be continued in the future.

A reception for 85 guests was held at Deane's Restaurant.

The bride is a graduate of Ontario High School and is completing her studies at State University of New York at New Paltz.

Her husband was graduated from Ontario High School and has just returned from service in Vietnam.

WOMAN'S PAGES

DIANE SULLIVAN appears in the role of Miss Julie as a child, in the color slide sequence that enlarges the traditional confines of the stage in the multi-media presentation of Strindberg's "Miss Julie" opening Friday, July 10, at St. Gregory's Church in Woodstock.

Women Warned About Excessive Sun Bathing

By FRIEDA KAYE
SAN FRANCISCO — It may be hard to believe, but women of age forty-plus who are sweltering this summer in high humidity areas such as New York City or Washington, D.C., are getting a free beauty treatment. According to an expert, they'll end up with a better complexion than women who relax at sun-drenched resorts.

Robert L. Day, doctor of pharmacy and assistant dean of the School of Pharmacy at the University of California, said that three factors contribute to the dry skin problem common to the majority of mature women. The principal culprit is years of exposure to sunlight, but an over-emphasis on cleanliness is also a factor. And, in menopausal women, an insufficient amount of the hormone, estrogen, may also be responsible.

On sunlight, Dr. Day said: "We have all seen the woman of 45 or 50 who have a very leathery skin, down to where her dress line begins. Below that, the skin is very fine and youthful in its texture."

He offers two suggestions for women who live in low humidity areas: avoid the use of face powder (it accelerates skin dryness) and wash your face once a day only, preferably at night. Emphasizing that he is not "anti-cleanliness," Dr. Day explained: "As we bathe, in many cases we are removing very protective natural oils which enable our skin to remain soft and flexible."

A wide assortment of cosmetic products is designed to ward off dry skin. On this subject, Dr. Day said: "My advice is to go out and buy the preparation which is the most simple and the least expensive." The simplest product that would keep a woman's skin from becoming dry in the summertime is one she most probably won't use, he said. That's petroleum jelly. "Many women would consider the 'cure' worse than the 'disease' because petroleum is a very tacky, gooey material," he explained.

Good substitutes are mineral oil, baby oil and certain cold creams. But for those who find these objectionable because they make the skin feel greasy, Dr. Day suggests creamy, perfumed products, chemically known as water-continuous emulsions. Pleasant to use, although often less efficient in retarding moisture loss, these comprise the majority of lotions, vanishing creams and moisturizers available today. If the pharmacist cannot identify the product, Dr. Day advises rubbing a liberal amount on the back of the hand. If it "vanishes," leaving the skin soft — but not oily or greasy — it is a water-continuous emulsion.

It is the loss of estrogen in menopausal and post-menopausal women, plus years of exposure to sunlight, that may contribute to aging skin, said Dr. Day. Estrogen makes a young girl's skin smooth and fine, and also gives her a greasy nose. At menopause, and after, a woman's skin seems to age more rapidly than her husband's. But this is due to the change of life, Dr. Day explained.

"When a woman hits menopause and the estrogens cut back a little bit and she is beginning to feel the effects of a lifetime of sun, she will probably be more outstandingly aged than her husband. I think probably her skin does not age any more rapidly. It's just that the changes due to estrogen, the changes during the menopause may be more pronounced." The male, with his coarser skin texture, also has another advantage, said Dr. Day. "He has nothing to match the menopause."

PAW Offers 'Miss Julie'

Performing Arts of Woodstock will open a six performance run of its multi-media adaptation of Swedish playwright August Strindberg's classic, "Miss Julie," Friday at 8:30 p.m. in St. Gregory's Episcopal Church on Route 212 one mile east of Woodstock.

"Miss Julie," originally set in Sweden, has been adapted to the West Indies and features an all-black cast of area performers for the PAW production. Director Frank Alexander has incorporated slides of the West Indies, live music and dance into an experimental version of this chronicle of personality clash and class struggle.

Robbie Bakaitis, who portrays Miss Julie, has been active in theater in Washington, D.C. and in New York City. She taught and acted for an apprentice company of the Negro Ensemble Company appearing in Peter De Anda's "Ladies in Waiting." Before her recent move to Woodstock, Miss Bakaitis taught voice production and acting at Staten Island Community College.

Don Epperson, who will appear as Miss Julie's servant, is a native of Norfolk, Va. He is known to local audience through his roles in PAW productions "Banana Thief" and "White Angel." He has also toured with "The Heads," a satiric theater group based in Woodstock.

The third member of the cast is Joan F. Sullivan who plays Kristin, a cook and Jean's fiancée. Mrs. Sullivan, the mother of two, has lived in Woodstock for 12 years. While she has been active in the many artistic, musical and dramatic groups in Woodstock, she will be making her first stage appearance since college.

Beverly Oxley will choreograph the dance sequences performed and music will be under the direction of Juma.

"Miss Julie" may also be seen this Saturday and Sunday and July 17, 18, & 19. All performances are at 8:30 p.m. Admission is $2. Tickets are available at the door, or reservations may be made by calling Mrs. John LeFever, Woodstock.

FULL SKIRTS COMING
Designer John Moore, of Cameo, thinks the skirt question is more one of width than of length. "Full skirts are coming in stronger and stronger," he said.

THE HEAD is apparently something to cover this coming fall and winter, as designer Jacques Tiffreau interprets the scene. Hoods are of many varieties, including a floppy-eared bunny-look (R). Fabric from the blouse is pulled up past the ears and tied in a bow at the top of the head. The skirt is a long, full Indian print. A crushed vinyl suit (L) is shown with monkey fur trim almost up to the knees. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

LEGIBLE WRITING MAKES LETTER MORE WELCOME

Dear Mrs. Post: My dad used to get letters from another very old man, written in the tiniest script, with a very fine pen and very pale ink. Dad's eyesight was too poor for such a letter and he was too deaf to have it read aloud, so someone always had to copy the letter in a giant hand with very black lead pencil.

Please suggest to letter writers that they consider the eyesight of the reader. No doubt (my script, pale ink and fine pen points are very polite and lady-like, but they are the devil to read.—R. V.

Dear "R. V.": It would probably be as difficult for the old man to change his way of writing as it was for your father to read it! However, he could certainly have used darker ink and a heavier pen point. Letterwriters should add to the recipient's pleasure by making their writing legible.

GREETING THE BRIDE'S PARENTS

Dear Mrs. Post: I know one should congratulate the groom and convey best wishes to the bride, but what is the proper thing to say to the parents of the bride and groom on the receiving line?—Mrs. Davidson.

Dear Mrs. Davidson: Depending on how well you know the mother of the bride, any one of the following remarks is sufficient: "It was such a lovely ceremony—Julie looks just beautiful!" "You must be very happy—they make such a wonderful couple!" "We are so happy for Julie—you must be, too!" If you are a friend of the groom's family, the same type of remark is appropriate, but if you have just been introduced to them, you merely say "I'm so happy to meet you." You may, of course, add to or alter any of these suggestions as you wish.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman, and don't forget to include your name and address.

A LEAN YEAR FOR FRUITS

Although markets feature a wide variety of long-awaited fruits, supplies of almost all summer fruits will be curtailed this year. Freezing spring temperatures are responsible to a large extent for damaging this summer's fruit harvest. Shoppers should not expect to find many fruit bargains this season, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist.

Fewer peaches are forecast this summer than last. July is the big month for southern peaches, where production is forecast 15 per cent below last year. Southern peaches were on the market a little earlier this year, owing to favorable growing conditions, particularly in South Carolina.

In contrast, New Jersey peaches, our main supply during August, were off to a slow start. The bloom was very late this year, but the crop has been making good gains recently.

Blueberries are a premium this year — New Jersey expects to be late with blueberries as well as peaches, owing to a cool spring. Harvest started June 25, about 10 days later than usual. Production estimates show New Jersey blueberries to be down 25 per cent from last year.

Cleaner blues — This year's blueberries are cleaner (fewer stones, stems, and leaves) because an increasing number were picked by machine. The mechanical harvester has a cleaning device built right into the machine. About 50 per cent of New Jersey's crop will be picked mechanically this year.

More plums; other fruits down — The one bright spot in the fruit picture this summer is plums. California, the leading supplier, expects to produce 64 per cent more plums than a year ago, and quality is reported to be excellent. Plums have been at fruit counters since June and will continue until September. Shoppers would do well to choose from the many different varieties of plums at the markets, as prices will probably be more reasonable than for most other fruits. California plum supplies are also up significantly; shop for them later in the summer. Other fruits, like Bartlett pears, apricots, nectarines, and cherries, although seasonally abundant, will be scarcer than last year.

PURPLE PONCHO, designed by Giorgio di Sant'Angelo for fall-winter, opens on a long skirt with fringe on the bottom, reminiscent of primitive clothing worn by South American Indians. (UPI Telephoto)

Dorplan Lad Wins ENYGA Event at Wiltwyck

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

KINGSTON — A total of 171 players, the largest field ever in a local tournament, turned out for the annual Eastern New York Golf Association event Wednesday at Wiltwyck Country Club. And a fine brood of a lad led them all.

Bill Brodgan, 16-year-old Linton High School (Schenectady) ace fired a one-under-par 34-37-71, to lead the field by four shots. It was his first victory on the 1970 ENYGA tour.

Sharing a three-way tie with 75s were Richard Sauers, Albany State College coach (38-37); Mark Fitzgerald, Pinehaven (36-39) and Dick Weaver, Van Schaick (35-40).

Brodgan, a 5 handicap player out of Wallhalla, carded three birdies and had two bogeys to finish two under par. He made the turn in 34, bagging birdies on the par-five 7th and the rugged par-4 ninth. A beautiful wedge shot and a 4-foot putt conquered No. 7 and on the challenging ninth, young Brodgan spanked a 6-iron 6 feet from the pin and rolled in the putt.

On the back side, Brodgan was trapped on his approach for a bogey-5 on the 10th hole. Brodgan's drive on the par-five 12th left him stymied behind a tree and he picked up his second bogey. He parred the next five holes, canned a 4-footer for his third birdie on the 17th and finished with a par.

Edward Kovacs led the Wiltwyck contingent with 78 and Werner Kolln posted a 40-39-79.

Paul Slamone of Pinehaven and veteran Walter Kubica of Pontoosuc posted 76s. The father-son combination of Michael Bayus Sr. and Jr. of Tall Timbers had 77 and 78, respectively.

George Gunderman, a 9 handicapper from Rainbow, led the Class B field with 39-39-78 and had 9 handicap a 69 net. Low net honors went to William Benink of Cordial Greens with 80-15-65.

Joseph Mullarkey of Wiltwyck posted 82-14-68 and Dr. Charles Kovacs had a 41-39-80 gross and 69 net.

Fred J. Sayers of Cordial Greens led Class C gross with 43-43-86 and 65 net. Runnerup was Warren Eves (McGregor) with 44-43-87.

Hevesi-Zeeh Team Takes Net Opener

KINGSTON — Action was fast and furious in yesterday's opening round of the Ulster County Tennis Championships at Forsyth Park. Matches were played in all five divisions of competition with the third-seeded team in mixed doubles, Judy Hevesi and Bill Zeeh, defeating Ruth and Sol Goldin, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3.

The Goldins weren't seeded in the event, but managed to take the first set, 5-7 with some sparkling team play. Zeeh and Hevesi settled down in the second set, but almost lost it as Sol and Ruth took them to 6-4. The winners then put it all together to take the final set and the match, 6-3.

The team of Hevesi-Zeeh will meet the winners of the Kaye and Bill Spangenberg-Barbara Fite and Mike Cornman match on Sunday, July 12th, 3 p.m. The Spangenbergers face Fite and Cornman Saturday, July 11th, also at 3 p.m.

Pete Zeeh and Kitty Fowler are scheduled for play today in defending mixed doubles champs, as well as men's and women's singles titlists, are seeded number one, with Dick Smith and Kitty Samuels second.

In women's doubles, the team of Barbara Fite and Aileen Cramer topped Joy Bell and Sandy Ihly, 6-4, 6-1. Elinor Darling and Maggie Grover beat Paula Hutton and Kay Spangenberg, 6-1, 6-3.

One match was played in women's singles with Judy Sykes defeating Pat Murphy, 6-1, 6-3.

In men's singles action, Ray Champlain took Jeff Elwin, 6-0, 6-1. Elwin couldn't mount any kind of an offensive drive and Champlain took early advantage of the situation.

The team of Nick and Pete Fowler topped Milt and Chip Grover, 6-2, 6-3 in the only men's doubles action.

Gus Horn and Tony Badalato are scheduled for play today in men's singles as is H. Clark Bell and Tom Conway. Bill Spangenberg and Carl Hubert are also scheduled for today.

Pete Zeeh, defending men's singles champ, is not scheduled to play until Saturday, June 11th, at 1 p.m. He will meet the winner of the Horn-Badalato encounter.

In men's doubles, Dave and John Roberts play Hubert and Arun Bhagwat. The defending champion Zeeh brothers will play Badalato and Pete Boyd Monday, July 13th, at 5:30 p.m.

Judy Sykes and Davy Nelson play the team of Darling and Grover in women's doubles.

Three mixed doubles event are also on today's card with Fowler-Fowler playing Leatherman-Hutton; Grover-Grover against Ihly-Ihly; Peggy Grover and Chip Grover against Joy and H. Clark Bell.

Champ Rainbow Is Victor at Mighty M

MONTICELLO — Two relatives of all-time champion sire, Adios (one sired by him, the other from one of his daughters) showed touches of class in providing most of the action in last night's featured race at Monticello Raceway. At the finish, Champ Rainbow (Jim Grundy) outgamed a very tough son of Adios, Leif Hanover (Gilles LaChance), by a nose. The winner paced his fastest mile of the year, 2:06.1, to reward his backers with a $7.60 payoff.

The field was reduced to six due to two late scratches. Kathy Dexter (Ken Heene) paced out of the gate the fastest. However, Champ Rainbow grabbed the lead at the three-eighths, leaving Leif Hanover parked on the outside. Grundy's and LaChance's mounts raced almost as a team for nearly half a mile before Leif Hanover showed signs of tiring at the seven-eighths. Though apparently soundly beaten at that point, the Adios five-year-old came on with a strong second effort by Miss-by-a-Whisker. Newcomer to Monticello, Mountain Arrow (Jim Sprouse) wound up third.

Locally-bred and owned Demon Royal (by Little Emperor from a former Mighty M performer, Bambi Demon) was an impressive wire-to-winner in his first pari-mutuel start in 2:07.3. Scoring last week in 2:10 in a non-wagering educational event, the handsome roan colt made it look easier Wednesday night over Um Prince (Jimmy Wingfield) and Wallkill Victory (John Gilmour).

The fans didn't believe Jim Curran's gate-to-wire win behind Country Spud last week in the Class C-2 trot. They let him get away at 9-1 last night and he won just as convincingly out of the eighth hole again, returning $21.80. Completing the 8-1 daily double was Car Value driven by Steve Inokai. Scoring his first victory since last winter at Pompano Park, the six-year-old Carloader mare paid a favorite's $6.00 for her half-length triumph.

A trio of promising but erratic two-year-old trotters eliminated themselves from contention in the opener. Russel Dunn's Jamie Colt, (Hercom D. Judge) off at 6-5 from the pole, broke in the first turn leaving the race wide open. Country Spud rushed out of the gate to gain the lead at the quarter pole. Noble Dayna (Fred Bradbury), from the initial crop of Noble Victory colts, trotted to the top at the three-eighths, only to go off stride heading to the half. Sam Ovelmo (Ken Heene) trotted steadily behind Country Spud as the Big John two-year-old filly, Jackie's Star, made a strong move past the half. But at the wire, the veteran Country Spud prevailed by a length over fast-closing Star Spangled (Eddie Accardi) with Sam Ovelmo settling for show.

Grandpa Joe (Gaetan Bailargeon) set the early pace in the second. Catello Manzi with Gayle Road sat in behind him before making his move past the five-eighths pole. Gayle Road collared the leader down the backstretch but was no match for comfortably-placed Car Value in the stretch. Sweet Anne (Jim Grundy) got through at the wire to nail Gayle Road for second.

Rainout Features

ACCORD — The rains came down at Accord Speedway at the start of the Sportsman's Feature so this week's card will have three rainout features plus a whole new program.

Jackie Wilson and Dick Hansen were sportsmen heat winners, while Charlie Winne and Howard Cornish took the sedan heats. Donnie Stokes, John Brown and Ray Curry were novice heat winners.

Cy Pesavento Cards Three-Under-31

NEW PALTZ — In one of the best rounds of the year in the Mohonk Twilight Golf League, Cy Pesavento scored a three-under-par 31 to beat Bill Odeneal who also shot a sub-par round of 3. Pesavento's win and the performance of his teammates enabled Elting Insurance to the Savago Insurance for the Eastern Division lead.

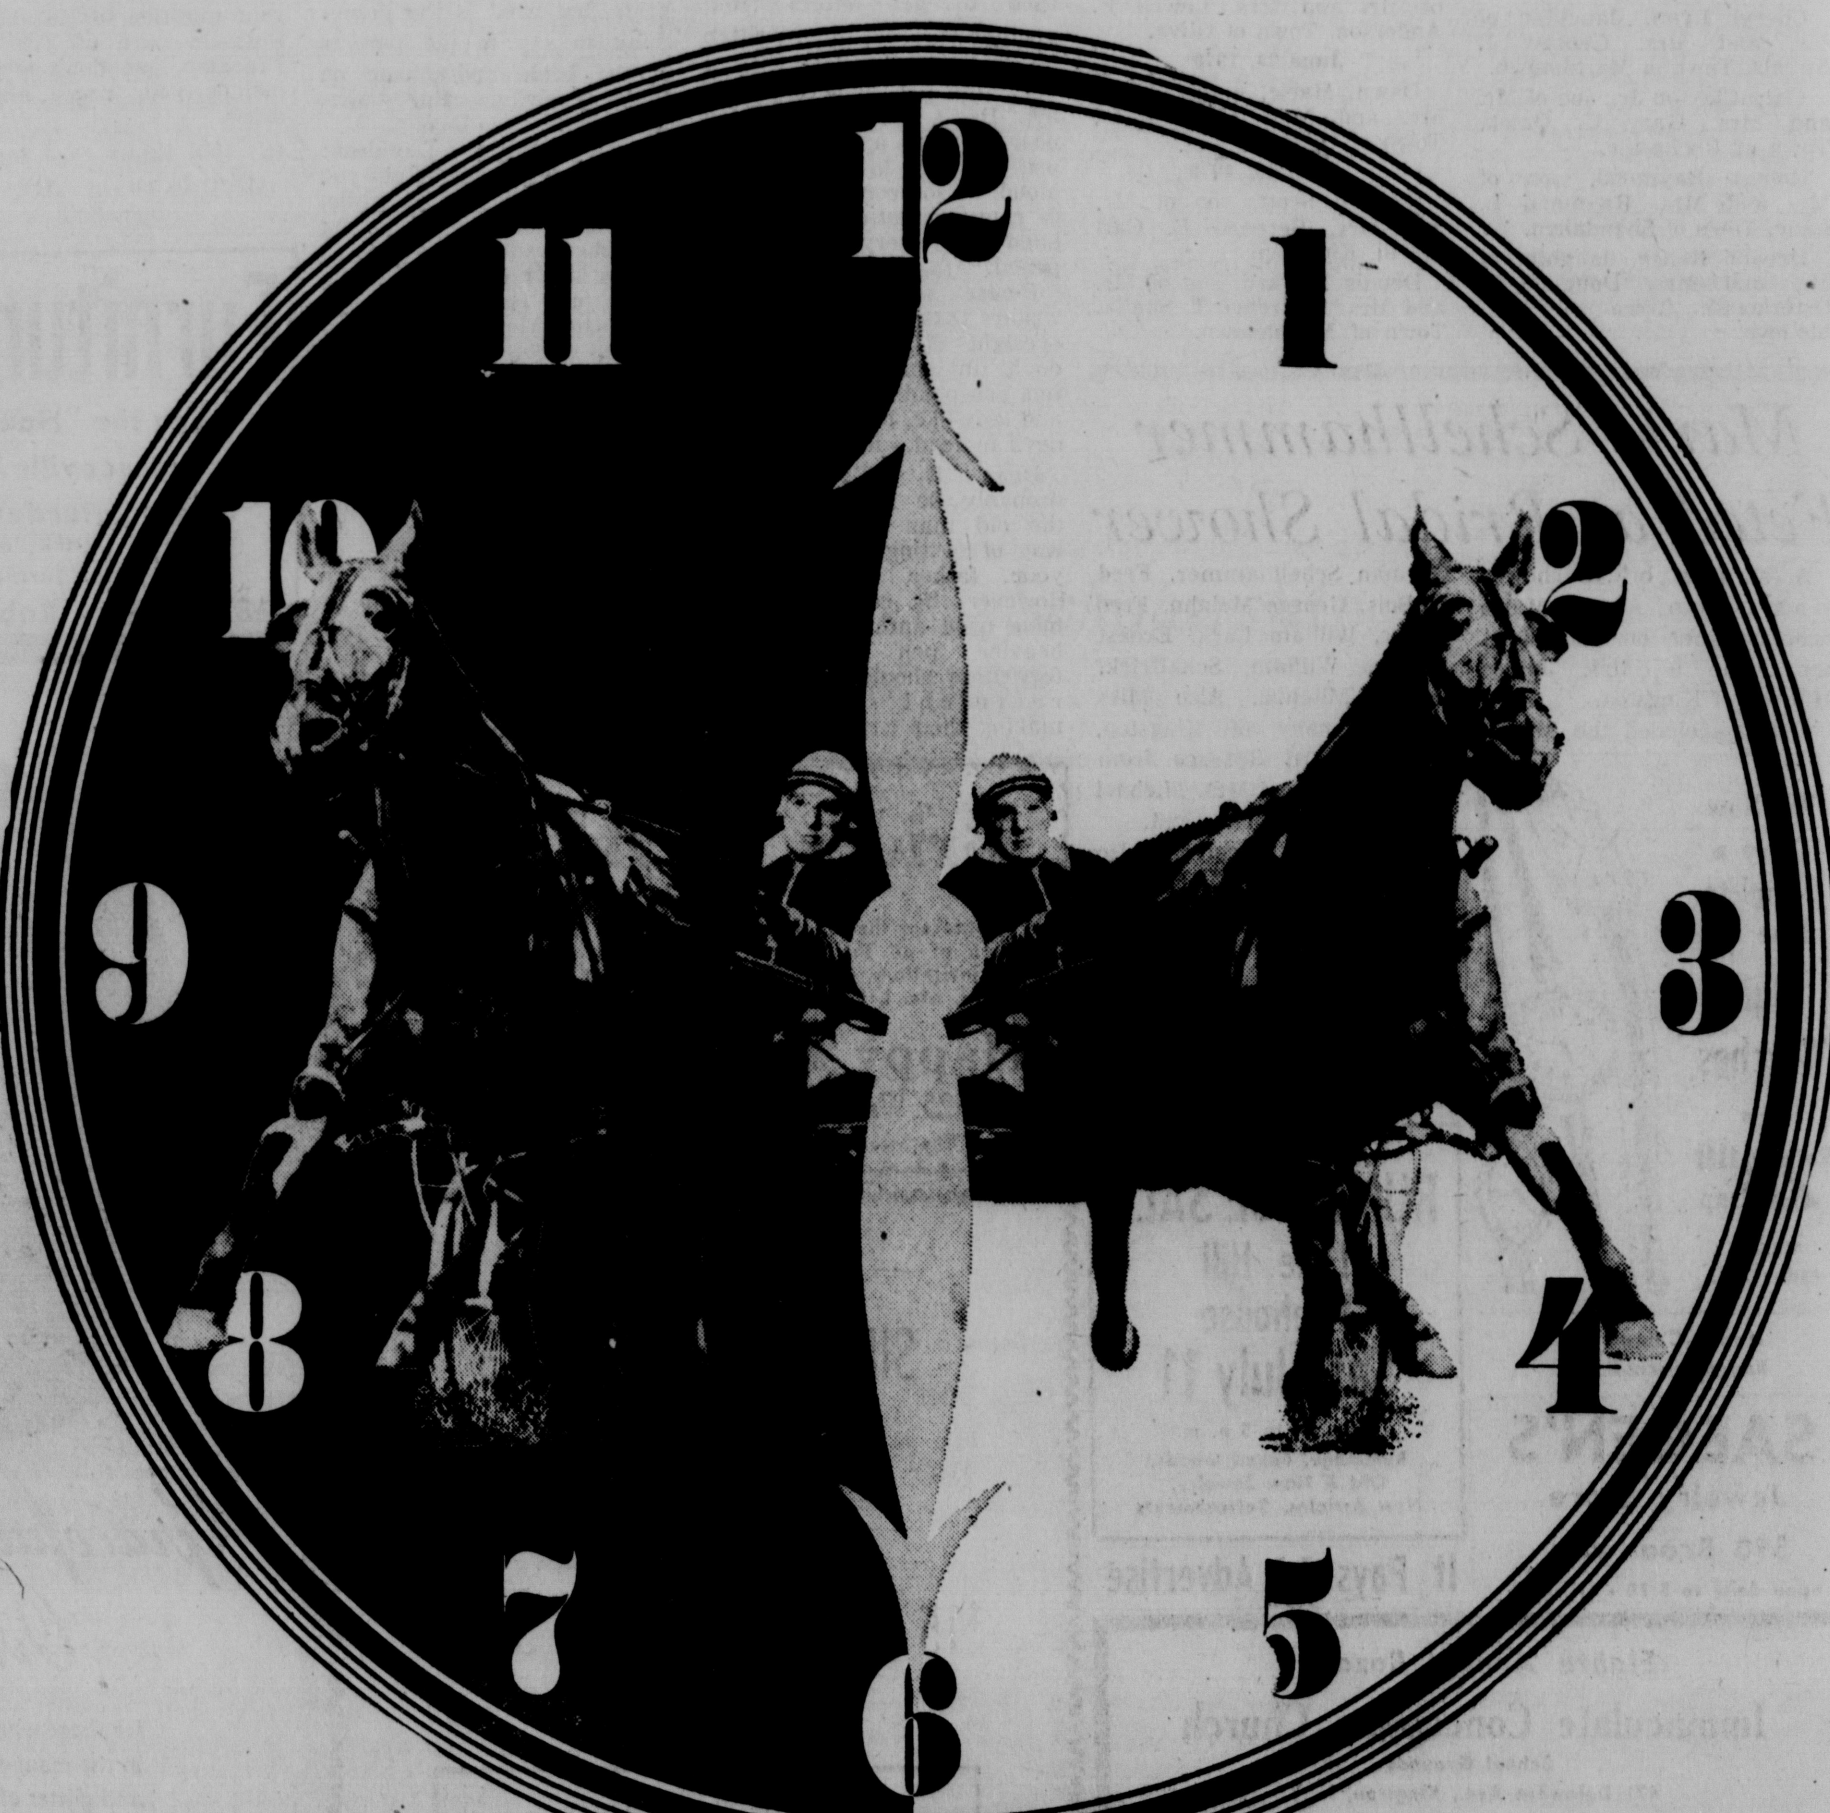

In the Western Division, Pat and George's holds a six-point lead over second-place Tantillo's Garage. The Garagemen pulled ahead of New Palz Lumber.

Low net scores for five flights were: Pesavento, Al Steigerwald, Rodney Jones, Ron Mackey, Bruce Conklin and Miles Oakley. Jones and Mackey tied for their spot.

Mantle Refused to Autograph Balls—Name Was Forged

By JIM BOUTON
Edited by Leonard Shecter
FEBRUARY 26, 1969

REPORTED TO SPRING camp in Tempe, Arizona, today, six days late. I was on strike. I'm not sure anybody knew it, but I was.

The reason nobody knew I was on strike was that I'd asked the Pilots to find a place for me and my family in Tempe. They couldn't. So I said that as long as there were no accommodations, I couldn't report. I sort of took it both ways. You take your edges where you can. I learned that playing baseball.

Sal Maglie is the pitching coach—Sal the Barber of the New York Giants, my boyhood hero. He still looks like he'd knock down his grandmother. He's got those big evil-looking black eyes. Looks something like Snoopy doing the vulture bit. He told me I'd be pitching five minutes of batting practice today and that I'd be the last pitcher.

That might mean something. It's one of the tiny things you look for all during spring training. You watch who you follow in batting practice, try to find out how many minutes you've pitched compared with other pitchers, decide whether you're with the good squad or the bad squad, whether the morning workout is more important than the afternoon workout.

Before the first workout, Joe Schultz, the manager (he's out of the old school, I think, because he looks like he's out of the old school, short, portly, bald, ruddy-faced, twinkly-eyed), stopped by while I was having a catch. "How you feel, Jim?" he said. I wonder what he meant by that?

Still, some of it is probably Lasko's fault. He led a couple of leagues in ERA (earned-run average), but he seemed to have built up a sort of minor-league psychology.

FEBRUARY 28
Also in camp is Steven Barber, pitcher, lefthanded, who was with the Yankees last year. Naturally we got to talking about Jim Turner, The Colonel, Southern Fried Chicken variety. Turner's pitching coach over there and has been voted the champion front runner of the civilized world. In case you forgot, you could always tell how you were doing by the way The Colonel said good morning.

If he said, "Well now, good morning, Jimmie boy," that meant you'd won your last two or three games and were in the starting rotation. If he nodded his head to you and said, "Jimbo, how you doin', how you doin'?" You were still in the starting rotation, but your record wasn't much over .500. If he just said, "Mornin'," that meant you were on the way down, that you'd probably lost four out of five and it was doubtful if you'd be getting any more starts. If he simply looked at you and gave a solemn nod, that meant you might get some mop-up work, or you might not, but you definitely weren't starting any more and would never get into a close game again.

And if he looked past you, over your shoulder, as if you didn't exist, it was all over and you might as well pack your bag because you could be traded or sent down at any moment.

The guy pitching batting practice before me, fellow name of Paul Click, who won't make the team, got hit with a line drive. Instead of ducking behind the screen in front of the mound he turned his back. It reminded me of the time more, three, four years ago. I didn't know why, but he could throw a low outside fastball to run faster in tight pants. And Jackie Brandt. He held back I understand that Dick Stuart, on it and at the last instant old Dr. Strangelove, would reach and and hit a line smoothe his uniform carefully, drive right back at me. I never saw the damn thing.

It smacked me on the jaw and opened me up for about 12 stitches. Those were the days when I gutted it, so I jumped right up and said I wanted to pitch. "Ralph, I'm ready, I'm ready," I said. "I can pitch."

Johnny Blanchard was the catcher. "Not with two mouths you ain't, Meat," he said. Uniform-measuring day. This is always a waste. They measure everybody carefully and the uniforms arrive three sizes too big. Part of the reason is that everybody is wearing tight-fitting uniforms these days. Pepitone refuses to take the field if his uniform isn't skin tight. Phil Linz used to say that he towels from the door to my locker, and all the guys were standing there, and just as I opened the door Mickey was putting the last towel down in place. I'll never forget him for that.

On the other hand there were all those times when he'd push little kids aside when they wanted his autograph, and the times when he was snotty to reporters, just about making them crawl and beg for a minute of his time. I've seen him close a bus window on kids trying to get his autograph. And I hated that look of his, when he'd get angry at somebody and cut him down with a glare.

I don't like the Mantle that refused to sign baseballs in the clubhouse before the games. Everybody else had to sign. Little Pete forged Mantle's signature. So there are thousands of baseballs around the country that have been signed not by Mickey Mantle, but by Pete Previte.

Like everybody else on the club, I ached with Mantle when he had one of his numerous and extremely painful injuries. I often wondered, though, if he might have healed quicker if he'd been sleeping more and loosening up with the boys at the bar less. I guess we'll never know.

What we do know, though, is that the face he showed in the clubhouse, as opposed to the one he reserved for the outside world, was often one of great merriment.

I remember one time he'd been injured and didn't expect to play, and I guess he got himself smashed. The next day he looked hung over out of his mind and was sent up to pinch hit. He could hardly see. So he staggered up to the plate and hit a tremendous drive to left field for a home run.

When he came back into the dugout everybody shook his hand and leaped all over him, and all the time he was getting a standing ovation from the crowd. He looked out at the stands and said, "Those people don't know how tough that really was."

I asked one of the sports writers if Joe Schultz had said anything about the way I threw today and he said, "Yeah."

"Well, what?"

"He said, 'It's too early to tell.'"

Carey, Milano Tops in BRL

By JIM MASSA

KINGSTON
Duane Carey and Jim Milano, League star, has registered three straight shutout wins and leads the league with 42 Ks, an average of 10.5 per contest. Through his first three games, Carey allowed only 10 hits and four runs, but everybody does some days, he was bombed for five runs and 10 hits in his last start.

Carey has compiled a robust .625 batting average with 10 hits in his first 16 trips. He is, however, in the long-ball Guess pitched a one-hitter to category, having only two doubles and eight singles, but is Palladino lost the only one able to knock in all important hits pitched in the league to runners with that consistent date by a 5-4 score.

Palladino and Bill Costello, Milano, a former Little each had a two-hitter to his credit. Milano boasts a pair of 3-hitters, while Marz and Pete Boyd each has thrown one 3-hitter. Palladino is runnerup to Milano in strikeouts with 33.

Eight different players have hit one home run but none has yet achieved two.

The All-Star break for the league found five teams locked in an incredible quintuplet tie.

Fish Kill In Ashokan

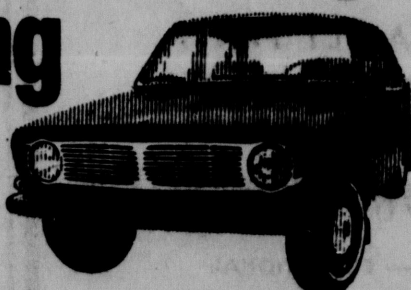

SHOKAN
John Ecker, Shokan, reported Monday that he recently saw "at least eight" dead Rainbow trout in the Ashokan Reservoir. The fish kill took place in the upper basin of the Ashokan.

Ecker had seen three rainbow, dead or dying on one day and went back the next day to find that the number had increased to at least eight, possibly more.

"The water was quite placid," he said. "And you could see them clearly as they came to the surface. I have never seen more than two dead Rainbow. The sight of them was quite a shock. The first day, I thought there might have been an accident. The second day, when I saw five or six more, I knew conditions were abnormal."

Rob Greene, State Conservation Department biologist for Ulster County, said, "Henry Bernstein, Phoenicia Conservation Officer, brought me two of the fish. I cannot, or have not as yet determined what killed them and they will be sent on to our laboratory at Rome for pathological tests. Most of the information might not be disclosed in case negligence is involved, so as not to bias any case that may develop."

Volvo's reputation for holding up wasn't earned by breaking down.

Downpour Hurts Jacklin's Round

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Tony Jacklin, heading for an awe-inspiring record until rain stopped play, paid the penalty today for having to cool off overnight and completed his first round of the 1970 British Open Golf Championship with a disappointing 67.

Defending champion Jacklin of England had gone out in a record 29 Wednesday and was eight under par at the 14th, where his ball stopped under a bush.

Up at dawn today along with several dozen others who were halted by the savage cloudburst, Jacklin took up where he left off but then shot a one-over-par 6. He dropped 2 more shots at the 16th and 17th and his five-under-par 67 was two shots off the pace-setting 65 by his countryman, Neil Coles.

"If I said what I really felt, you couldn't print it," Jacklin said ruefully. "It was a different game today and very difficult to pick up when you are eight under (par)."

The unfinished delegations teed off in steady rain that plagued the 6,951-yard Old Course with casual water.

An occasional clap of thunder served as ominous reminders of Wednesday's night's jungle-like storm.

The second 18-hole round started immediately after completion of the first, which meant a long hard day for some — provided, of course, the weather becomes no worse.

The Royal Air Force Station nearby gloomily forecast persistent rain, clearing up late in the afternoon.

Roberto de Vicenzo, former British Open champion, finished with a one-under-par 71. The Argentine was one of the players whose round was interrupted by rain Wednesday.

He said, "I know it was a difficult decision for the Royal and Ancient to make. But I think the whole round should have been rubbed out."

"This is the best British Open field in the history of the championship. Many of us have traveled thousands of miles."

"I don't want to have a handicap of this type. I firmly believe the decision to let the round stand when rain stopped play was no good."

Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex., completed his round for a 32-68 and supported De Vicenzo's claim that the whole round Wednesday should have been wiped out.

"We should have started from scratch today," he said. "We have not played the same golf course. A few holes yesterday and a few more today. Is that a true record of the round and I've got to hang around for about three hours before I go out again."

Mets Defeat Cards, 7-5

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ken Singleton capped a four-run third inning with a three-run homer Wednesday to spark the New York Mets to a 7-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals for their sixth consecutive triumph.

The Mets, trailing 3-0, launched their third inning rally against righthander Nelson Briles, who had just come off the 21-day disabled list. Briles set down the Mets in order in the first two innings, but Ken Boswell led off the third with a double to start the Mets on their way.

Jerry Grote scored Boswell with a single, and after Ray Sadecki sacrificed, Tommy Agee extended his hitting streak through 19 games by beating out an infield hit. Grote was cut down at the plate as Bud Harrelson bounced into a fielder's choice, but Singleton followed with his third homer of the season.

The Mets, chased, Briles in the fifth as they scored three more runs. Two-out run-scoring singles by Harrelson, Art Shamsky and Donn Clendenon highlighted the inning.

The Cardinals scored once in the first on a walk to Richie Allen and a double by Joe Torre and tallied two more runs in the third on a 529-run double by Carl Taylor.

Taylor led off the eighth with his third homer of the year, and the Cardinals then loaded the bases with none out to chase Sadecki. However, relievers Tug McGraw and Ron Briles pitched to 1 batters in 5th: Sadecki pitched to 1 batters in 5th: Save: Taylor (10), T-2.43, A-38.92.

Don Buford Sparks Oriole Victory

By United Press International
Don Buford hit a two-run, bases-loaded single with two out in the ninth inning Wednesday night to give the Baltimore Orioles a dramatic 9-8 victory over the New York Yankees in a wild game which featured seven homers.

Buford, who had three hits, singled on a 0-2 pitch after losing pitcher Lindy McDaniel struck out the two previous batters — pinchhitters Terry Crowley and Elrod Hendricks — with the bases loaded while protecting an 8-7 lead.

Frank Robinson hit two homers and the Orioles also got a two-run homer by Boog Powell and a solo homer by Buford. Thurman Munson hit a three-run homer for the Yanks. Johnny Ellis had a solo blast and former Oriole Curt Blefary had a two-run homer.

Carlos May singled in the deciding run in the eighth inning after a costly error by pitcher Al Downing as the Chicago White Sox edged the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1 behind the five-hit pitching of Tommy John.

Bobby Knop led off the Chicago eighth with a single. John sacrificed Knop to second and Downing failed to hold on to Tito Francona's short throw to first trying to get Tom McCraw. Knop scored on the error and McCraw later scored on May's single.

Buddy Bradford's first major league grand slam home run capped a five-run eighth inning and sparked the Cleveland Indians to a 6-5 victory over the Washington Senators.

Trailing 5-1 in the eighth and with two out, the Indians' Roy Foster singled and Ray Fosse walked. Tony Horton singled to left scoring Foster. Reliever Darold Knowles replaced Washington starter George Brunet. Chuck Hinton walked, filling the bases. Bradford then hit the first pitch over the left-field fence.

In Oakland, Tony Oliva hit a homer, three singles and a sacrifice fly, and drove in three runs to help Jim Perry to his 13th victory as the Minnesota Twins defeated the Oakland A's, 8-6.

Oliva hit his 12th homer after a game-opening single by Cesar Tovar and drove in Minnesota's third run in the sixth with his sacrifice fly. Rich Reese followed with his sixth homer to make it 4-2.

A sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Gates Brown with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth inning presented Mickey Lolich with his first win since May 29 as Detroit defeated the Boston Red Sox, 3-2. Ken Szotkiewicz homered for the Tigers.

Jim Fregosi raced home from third in the ninth inning on a grounder hit by Ken McMullen and beat the throw to give the

"I don't care that I didn't get a chance to fight," Clay added, "because if fighting was important to me I could just go down to any gym and fight as much as I want. All this scuffling around was humiliating and insulting, but the real losers are the youth who were going to get the money from the show."

The exhibition was expected to be a tuneup for a bout between Clay, who was deposed as champion when he refused to be inducted into the army in 1967, and Joe Frazier, his successor. The Clay-Frazier bout is planned for Detroit in September, unless it also runs into difficulty. The Michigan boxing commission is in favor of the bout and Clay has consented, but Frazier has not yet agreed.

Local Squads Reach Semis

Kingston Nationals and Saugerties will collide at 5:30 p.m. tonight with the winner earning the right to play the Kingston Americans in the finals Friday night. The winner of Friday's game earns the right to represent District I in the Babe Ruth State Tournament at Watertown, July 19-26.

The Nationals received four hit pitching from Mike Palladino to turn back Beacon 5-3 and Saugerties scored 11 runs in the first inning to top Hudson 16-9, to set up their semi-final clash.

The Kingston Americans led by Tom Turco's three hits won over Poughkeepsie North, 10-3, and move into the finals Friday night against the Nationals-Saugerties winner.

Tom Barton smacked a home run and single to lead the Nationals. Dave Whiteford led Saugerties batters with a double and two singles.

House-Passed Clean Air Bill: Late Wording Might Be Added

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's move to ban lead from gasoline would be stopped by last-minute wording inserted in the House-passed Clean Air Bill, say administration sources.

Language tightening the conditions under which lead could be outlawed was introduced by Rep. David Satterfield, D-Va., whose district includes the nation's two largest producers of lead for gas.

The measure passed last month gives the Department of Health, Education and Welfare power to prohibit fuel ingredients that endanger public health—but only after making findings based on "relevant medical and scientific evidence."

"When you look at the wording, it's clear that Congress has no intention of permitting us to take a liberal interpretation of the law and ban lead," says an HEW source. The Senate has yet to act on the bill.

The Nixon administration proposal did not put the burden of proof on HEW. It allowed the secretary to set standards for lead based on information obtained from fuel manufacturers "or any other information available to him."

Such information includes a growing body of evidence that lead is accumulating in higher than normal amounts in human bodies and in the food chain. What effect this has on humans over the long term is not well established. But many scientists are urging that use of lead be curtailed before any disastrous effects become known.

Sources at HEW say lead likely would be phased out of auto fuels over a five-year period if the agency were allowed to base its decision on such information. The more restrictive wording was offered during a closed subcommittee hearing by Satterfield, whose Richmond district includes the headquarters of the Ethyl Corp., and a huge facility of Dupont the two biggest makers of tetraethyl lead for gas.

Satterfield rejects any suggestion he weakened the wording to accommodate powerful interests in his district.

But he says, "The fact they are in my district put me in closer contact with them so I understood some aspects that wouldn't have been explored otherwise."

The difficulty in banning lead under Satterfield's amendment requiring "medical and scientific evidence" is that although lead is a known pollutant and a poison in high quantities, there is no proof it is harmful in quantities breathed on highways and in urban environments.

Administration officials say President Nixon was apparently outmaneuvered by the fuel industry in his effort to curb motor vehicle pollution.

In a message to Congress, the President said auto manufacturers are preparing to put on the market by 1972 cars which will not require and cannot run on leaded gasoline.

"I am confident that the petroleum industry will see to it that suitable non-leaded gasoline is made widely available for these new cars when they come on the market," he said.

The registered Ethyl lobbyist on Capitol Hill, John J. Adams, says he was in contact with Satterfield before the bill was passed but did not work with him on the wording.

"I was concerned that Congress hear persuasive reasons for retaining lead in gas," says Adams. "Primarily I was concerned with a Bureau of Mines report that indicated operating cars on comparable unleaded fuel would increase photochemical smog by as much as 25 percent."

Satterfield says that one of the scientific papers he relied on "quite heavily" was prepared by the Bureau of Mines. This study is cited by Ethyl in full page newspaper ads published across the country as part of an intensive lobbying campaign by the fuel industry.

A Bureau of Mines spokesman says the study did not involve testing the non-leaded gas with catalytic mufflers.

These mufflers, manufacers told Congress, can purify non-leaded gas but will not work on gas containing lead.

Richard Glogau of Engelhard Industries—one of the nation's leaders in developing chemical refining equipment—testified his company had developed such a muffler which cleanses fuel exhaust of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide to a degree better than federal standards proposed for 1980.

Satterfield and the fuel industry lobby contends nobody has yet developed a catalytic muffler that operates satisfactorily.

New Student Rights In New York Schools

NEW YORK (UPI) — City public high school students will be guaranteed a voice in curriculum and discipline when they return to class this fall.

Under a new set of rules, the students will also be assured freedom to dress as they wish and express their views.

The student rights are defined in a new behavior code which also declares that rights entail responsibilities and "No student has the right to interfere with the education of his fellow students."

The code, which has Board of Education approval, is being mailed this week to the principals of each of the 91 academic and vocational high schools in the nation's largest school system.

It is a revision of an earlier policy statement approved informally by the board last fall but never implemented because of attacks from students who said it did not go far enough in defining rights and administrators who said it went too far.

The new statement says that each school must have an elective student government which "shall be involved in the process of developing curriculum and of establishing disciplinary policies." A parent-student-faculty consultative council also must meet at least once a month to discuss school problems.

While official student publications "shall reflect the policy and judgment of the student editors," the editors must "be governed by the standards of responsible journalism, such as avoidance of libel, obscenity and defamation."

In practicing their rights of free speech and assembly, students are told they may wear armbands or badges and distribute literature as long as these are not of a commercial or obscene nature, libelous, defamatory or "advocating racial or religious prejudice."

The code allows students to distribute literature adjacent to the school freely but on school property only guidelines as to time and place to be set by the principal and student government. The earlier code has simply required "prior authorization."

Students are permitted "to determine their own dress, except where such dress is clearly dangerous, or is so distracting as to clearly interfere with the learning and teaching process."

The code also sets the procedure for automatic hearings for any student suspended from school.

Dr. Seymour P. Lachman, a board member who was chief author of both versions of the code, said the new one goes farther in detailing the rights of students but also places greater emphasis on their responsibilities.

Joint Newspaper Bill Is Favored by Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has gone on record in favor of a bill to exempt from antitrust laws newspapers that pool their noneditorial operations to avoid financial collapse of one or the other of the papers.

All that remains for final congressional approval is reconciliation of differences between an earlier Senate-passed bill which the House rewrote and passed Wednesday by a 292-87 roll call vote.

Both bills would provide such joint operations now in effect in 22 cities could continue without change. New joint agreements made after enactment of a compromise bill into law would need approval of the attorney general.

One of the existing joint operations, between two Tucson, Ariz., newspapers, has been ruled by the Supreme Court a violation of antitrust laws. The bills would nullify that ruling.

The measures would allow newspapers to combine their advertising printing, business and circulation operations and pool the profits from the joint operations. The papers, however, would have to maintain separate editorial staffs.

The House version would require a newspaper be in "probable danger of financial failure" to qualify for the antitrust exemption, while the Senate version would require only that a publication "appear unlikely to remain or become a financially sound publication."

Protestants Planning for Belfast Parade

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Militant Protestants stacked rubbish in the streets for bonfires and brought out their orange sashes today in preparation for Monday's parade to celebrate a battle victory over Roman Catholics nearly 300 years ago.

Two smaller Protestant parades went off without serious trouble Wednesday night except for what police described as one minor rock-throwing incident. No one was hurt.

British troops, part of the 11,000 on alert through Northern Ireland, blocked entrances to Roman Catholic areas with trucks and armored cars and helicopters hovered over the parade routes to try to spot trouble.

Foreign Minister Patrick J. Hillery of the Irish Republic denounced the Orange Order, a militant Protestant organization planning Monday's parade, as "a malignant disease."

Hillery said he could not see why "a third of the population of Northern Ireland should be humiliated by sectarian strutting parades celebrating something they do not want to celebrate."

Hillery made the statement in Dublin as he arrived from London, where British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home told him his secret visit to Belfast Monday was both a diplomatic discourtesy and an error in judgment.

Firemen Pelted
BUFFALO (AP) — A suburban Lackawanna firechief has charged that his firemen are being lured into areas by false alarms and rubbish fires — and then pelted with rocks.

"I can tell you, my men are angry," said Chief Edwin J. Kij. "We're putting out fires and are being attacked while our backs are turned." Kij added that at least one fireman has been injured in the incidents.

Dear Abby

When Hubby Snores...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Eugene and I have been happily married for 26 years, but like everyone else, I have a problem. His snoring! I don't know whether he's snoring louder lately, or if my tolerance is wearing thin, but it's gotten so bad I can't get a decent night's sleep — especially if Eugene has had a few drinks during the evening, then he snores like a mountain lion!

I have asked him gently to please stop snoring, nudged him, and rolled him over, which helps temporarily, then he starts in again.

Last night it was so bad, I woke him up and asked him to please go sleep in the spare room. He went, but he was very angry. The next morning we had a few words about it. Eugene said I was very selfish for waking him up and asking HIM to go to the other room. He said that since he was sleeping soundly, and I was up, I should have gone to the spare room to sleep. I say that since HE was creating the disturbance, HE should have gone. What do you say?

PAM: I say Eugene was right.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged housewife with two teen-age children who make the honor roll regularly. I keep a nine-room house clean, but not immaculate. I sew all my own clothes and my daughter's, too. (I've even taught her to sew.) My children and I attend church regularly, and we have a host of friends whom I feel think well of us.

My husband, who is an only child, is hard-working, capable and provides adequately. He is also well-liked. These are the assets. Now here are a few of the liabilities.

I am about five pounds overweight. I am graying in the temples. I have only a high school education. I dislike my mother-in-law intensely because she makes me feel dumb, dirty, and inferior. Now, tell me, how can you like someone who makes you feel dumb, dirty, and inferior?

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Your first two "liabilities" strike me as being somewhat trivial. (It's no big deal to get rid of five pounds and a few gray hairs.) And if your limited education is causing you to feel "dumb," you can become better informed by reading. Forget about your mother-in-law. No one can make you feel "dumb, dirty, and inferior" unless you think you might deserve it.

DEAR ABBY: So many people have written to you to complain because they sent a gift "six months ago," and they didn't receive a thank-you for it.

Why don't these people call up (or write) to the person they sent it to and find out if the gift was ever received? (If they did get it and were slow in sending a "thank you," they deserve to be embarrassed.)

There is always a chance that the gift was not received. I work in the department of the postoffice where packages are undeliverable because the address has "fallen" off, or become smudged and cannot be read. And there is no return address on the package. Also, when a package is returned to the store because it cannot be delivered, the card will read, "From Uncle Ted and Aunt Mary," and the store has no way of knowing WHO bought it.

Please tell readers to put their full names and address INSIDE every gift, and not to sit around for six months wondering if the gift they sent ever got there.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

RIGHT AND WRONG: (Comment) I think you gave the wrong reason to the girl who was afraid to have her boyfriend stay at her house while her parents were on vacation.

You shouldn't have told her not to let him stay with her because of what other people might think. You should have just told her that it was not right.

My mother tells me not to do things because of what people would say. This gives me hangups. A thing is right or wrong and I should do it or not do it because of that, not because of what people will say. —It's Right or It's Wrong in Detroit.

(A.) You have a very good point, but it does not make what I and your mother believe incorrect.

The girl and her boyfriend could have stayed alone together in the house for a week and behaved themselves perfectly. They could have done not a single wrong thing. But people would have assumed they were doing wrong things.

In this world we live in we must not only do the right thing, but we must also appear to do the right thing. As you grow older you will come to understand this better.

AT HOME: (Q.) Why does a generation so hung up on peace and love refuse to practice these things at home? I do not believe any teen-ager in my neighborhood bothers to be even friendly enough to say "Good morning" to any adult. —An Adult Snubbed by Teen-Agers, Newark, N. J.

(A.) I am an adult, too, and most of the high-school students I meet are very friendly.

Some other readers may have comments on your letter. I will welcome them.

NEW JERSEY TROOPERS ON THE WATCH

(UPI Telephoto)

Violence-Scarred Asbury— Unarmed Blacks Keep Peace

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (UPI)—Unarmed black youth patrols and state police maintained peace in the violence-scarred streets of this resort community today while Negro leaders canvassed West Side ghetto residents on city government reactions to their 20 demands.

Approximately 300 black leaders met five hours Wednesday with Mayor Joseph F. Mattice to discuss the demands which included a proposal to grant amnesty to the 225 persons arrested during three nights of violence in which 160 were injured and damage was estimated at more than $1 million.

No serious incidents were reported Wednesday as the black youths acted as a buffer between ghetto residents and police in an effort to end the violence. Only 12 arrests were reported during the day.

Black leaders were slated to meet again with Mattice today. Although none of the official decisions on the black demands was revealed, Mattice and black leaders such as Willy Ham expressed optimism. "We feel encouraged by it," Ham said of the meeting.

Other key demands included establishment of a civilian police review board and withdrawal of all state police and outside policemen from the community.

Police Chief Thomas Smith, a black, said he was "cautiously optimistic" that serious disorders may have ended in the resort community of 22,000 persons.

State police announced earlier Wednesday Maj. Harold Graff, head of the Criminal Investigation Bureau, would lead an investigation into shootings Tuesday that resulted in 46 persons being wounded, four seriously. Police said they fired into the air in a brief battle with a crowd of 200 persons.

Peace Plan for Amman

Hussein, Arab Guerrillas Agree

AMMAN (UPI)—King Hussein of Jordan and Arab guerrilla leaders have agreed on a peace plan calling for the removal of both regular Jordanian and guerrilla troops from Amman, where they fought a between the army and guerrillas in the fight against Israel. Four Arab nations helped mediate the settlement—Egypt, Libya, the Sudan and Algeria—and were said by the Palestinians to have promised the guerrillas they would be granted freedom of action in Jordan for operations against Israel. This was not mentioned in the peace plan.

The pact, hammered out during three weeks of negotiations between the government and commandos, contained 16 points, including one calling for the virtual demilitarization of the capital to reduce the possibility of more army-guerrilla clashes.

This point was said to call for the removal of guerrilla bases and heavy guns from the city, along with all regular army units. Civilian militiamen and anti-aircraft guns and crews would remain to guard against Israeli attack.

The plan had no provision concerning the Palestinian refugee camps in Amman housing about 70,000 persons, many whom fought for the guerrillas in the three days of fighting in June that killed an estimated 1,000 persons in the capital.

Political analysts said Hussein appeared to have fared well in the agreement, for the points include no mention of blanket freedom for the guerrillas despite the reported promise by the four mediators. This is what the fighting in June was about.

The pact in fact bans the carrying and firing of arms by guerrillas in public places, armed demonstrations and the collection of contributions for the guerrillas. It calls for the commands to obey instructions at joint army-guerrilla checkpoints, something they have been reluctant to do in the past.

As for the war against Israel, the settlement provides for "full cooperation" between the army and guerrillas, strengthening of "brotherly relations" between the army and commandos, and the mobilization of all resources against Israel.

No Issue Worth War—Soviet

LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet Union believes no current international issue, including the Middle East, is worth going to war with the West, a study published by the Royal Institute of International Affairs said today.

The study said the use of Soviet forces in trouble spots such as the Middle East is part of a policy to enable Moscow to pursue an active global foreign policy while limiting the West's freedom of action in critical areas.

"Basically, the Soviet Union, however, has always left herself a tactical loophole through which to escape from the commitments whose risks become too high," the study said. "So far no issue has appeared which is worth a war with the West."

Malcolm Mackintosh, consultant of Soviet affairs at the prestigious Institute for Strategic Studies, drafted the study, which appeared in "The World Today," published by the Royal Institute of International Affairs.

Israel has asserted there are 8,000 Soviet soldiers in Egypt, including 3,000 weapons operators and missile and aircraft crews, and that Soviets are involved in actual fighting. The main priorities of Soviet policy are deterrence, protection of the homeland and the ability to wage general war if deterrence fails, the study said.

Thus, though spectacular in air power, which would make it form, use of Soviet troops in a long and costly business to develop a true intervention not the essential element of Moscow's strategic policy. One problem, it said, is that if the Soviet Union intervened there was no guarantee it could get troops to the troubled area ahead of Western forces.

Park: U.S. Honor at Stake

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has a secret agreement not to withdraw American soldiers from South Korea so long as South Korean troops are fighting in South Vietnam, according to a former South Korean Defense Ministry official.

Paul B. Park, former deputy defense minister, said South Korea agreed to send 45,000 soldiers to South Vietnam on condition no U.S. forces would be withdrawn from South Korea.

"That agreement is not verbal. It is in writing and I know that for a fact," Park told UPI.

"Now let us see if the United States will honor its word," Park said, responding to reports the United States wants to withdraw some of the estimated 60,000 U.S. troops now stationed in South Korea.

Park is chairman of the opposition New Democratic party in the South Korean Congress. He said South Korea would have to withdraw its troops from South Vietnam if American forces are cut in his country.

He added any American troop reduction would encourage North Korea to act against his country.

"If your government continues its present policy we shall have another war, I fear," Park said.

State Department spokesman Carl Bartsch said Wednesday that there will be no lessening Rogers officially has informed of their security," Bartsch said.

Cutback of Air Sorties in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Air Force planes have flown more than 120 bombing sorties against targets in Cambodia since American troops were withdrawn back into South Vietnam last week, sources say.

This is a drastic cutback from the level of air attacks mounted in May and June while American and South Vietnamese infantrymen were scouring enemy base areas in Cambodia.

U.S. officials have said American warplanes will continue hitting enemy supplies and reinforcement routes through Cambodia, but will not provide direct air support for Cambodian troops except as a side effect of the interdiction bombings.

Sources said in the first seven days after the American troop withdrawal, U.S. fighter bombers flew nearly 100 sorties and big B-52's flew more than 20 against targets in Cambodia.

A sortie is one flight by one plane.

During the past week, American reconnaissance planes made nearly 90 flights over Cambodian territory, attempting to keep track of movements of enemy war material and soldiers.
